Talking 14,000 Miles
What Idleness Means
Poor Old Confucius
Says Mr. Coolidge

By Arthur Brisbane

YOU MAY NOW TALK to your friend in Australia, price $45 for three minutes.

The telephone company announces approaching reductions in long distance rates generally which should increase gross and net receipts and profits, stimulating use and encouraging business, by bringing all Americans closer together.

This writer talks from an office in New York to a ranch on the edge of the Pacific ocean with absolute ease and clearness, whereas it is necessary to walk into the next room to speak to the assistant transcribing this from the phonograph.

The link with Australia, longest ever established, 14,000 miles, is made through the air with the co-operation of the British and Australian postoffices, which seem to think they can run a telephone business.

When will the next step come, wireless through the ether to a nearby planet? And what will they tell us?

You realize what the earnings of workmen amount to in industry, business and prosperity, when you consider efforts to relieve unemployment.

There are undoubtedly 4,000,000 men idle, and many more.

Four millions, allowing for each man earning only $4 a day, 300 days a year, would amount to $4,800,000,000 a year.

Even on the "dole" basis of $5 a week, the annual bill would come to $1,040,000,000.

No wonder our "best financial minds" want to avoid the dole, which would have to be added to taxation.

If you should open the grave of Confucius, and find the venerable gentleman turning rapidly in his grave, you would know that he saw this dispatch from Shanghai:

"Chiang Kai-Shek, president of China, has turned Christian, and was baptized a member of the Methodist Church by the Rev. Z. Kuang."

It is surely a blow to Russia's hopes of using China in her business. Methodists are not Bolsheviks, or "Reds."

China has welcomed and followed many religions, from the lofty philosophical teachings of Confucius to the vilest forms of superstitions.

Whether the president's conversion means a gradually Christianized China, or simply an Oriental tribute to the success of the West, it is important and interesting.

Calvin Coolidge says a political campaign is a helpful process for a self-governing people, because "it will develop the weak points of the governmental and economic structure."

It has been developing some interesting weak points in the biggest city in New York, including the fact that some magistrates, and judges, buy seats on the bench and proceed to get back their money by protecting racketeers, murderers and bootleggers.

The interesting economic fact is revealed that some of the courts were used to blackmail miserable women, arresting them on trumped-up charges, and extorting money under fear of exposure.

The charge alone would disgrace them for life, regardless of conviction, or guilt.

Charles M. Schwab says a "record boom" is approaching.

An ordinary boom, such as we had a year ago, would satisfy the average man. Many predictions of returning prosperity have turned out to be descriptions of mirages. The people are tired of the Dr. Coue prosperity, with "every day, in every way, we are getting better and better."

L. J. Horowitz, head of the biggest building concern in the country, says of a friend, who runs big stores in many cities: "Prepare for a business in December bigger than you did last year."

Mr. Horowitz believes and convinces you that the time for another great business start has come.

His opinion is even more important than that of the shrewd Mr. Schwab. Mr. Schwab looks after one kind of business, Mr.

Boston College Wins From Dayton, 15-6

Fenway Park, Oct. 28—Boston College defeated Dayton here today, 15 to 6.

Coach Joe McKenny sent a team composed chiefly of substitutes out to take the Dayton scalp. B. C.'s first stringers were wrecked in their last two performances with Fordham and Villanova.

FIRST PERIOD

B. C. won the toss and Vodokivs kicked off to Cabrinha who carried back to his 40-yard line. They were unable to gain and kicked to Boehner.

Neither team was able to gain to the line, both tried forwards without any success. Boehner and Fitzsimmons exchanged kicks and on the B. C. quarterback's last punt, Dayton broke through and blocked the kick, but Vodokivs recovered for B. C. on the 25-yard line. Vodokivs and Kelley clicked up a first down.

On the fourth down, Vodokivs

RAMS SCORE ON N. Y. U. FUMBLE

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—The largest crowd that ever saw a football game between two metropolitan teams packed the Yankee Stadium to its capacity of 75,000 fans this afternoon as the undefeated teams of Fordham and New York University clashed for the eleventh time since 1904.

FIRST PERIOD

Before the game was two minutes old, Fordham scored a touchdown after a fumble by one of New York University's sophomore backs, Jim Earngusy. Fordham right end pounced on the ball on the N. Y.

Booth Is Carried Off Field in Y.-A. Game

Yale Bowl, New Haven, Ct., Oct. 25 (INS)—One of the football season's most colorful spectacles, the annual Yale-Army game, was staged in a cold, misty drizzle here this afternoon before a capacity crowd of 76,000 persons.

A blustering wind swept in from the west, chilling the big throng in the open stands to the bone.

This was the 13th annual meeting of Yale and Army. In the 29 games they have played Yale has won 18, Army 6, and five have resulted in tie scores.

Albie Booth, Yale's Mighty Atom, was carried from the field in the middle of the game at the Bowl today. How badly he was injured could not be determined.

FIRST PERIOD

Crowley of Yale recovered Army's kickoff on the 16 yard line and ran it back to the 20 yard stripe. Parker fumbled and Yale lost seven yards. Yale was forced to kick and it was Army's ball in midfield. Two line smashes and a forward pass failed and Army punted.

Unable to gain Yale punted to Carver who slipped as he caught the ball and was downed on his 30 yard line. Army couldn't gain on the slippery field either, and kicked out of bounds at the Yale 30 yard line. After one ineffectual rush Parker kicked to Carver at the Yale seven yard line and he came back to the sixteen yard stripe. Carver had to chase a punt that was far over his head. Army hit the line twice and then kicked and it was Yale's ball on the 40 yard line.

The game developed into a punting duel with Yale having the edge. Yale punted to Carver who was tackled in his tracks on his own 17 yard line.

Then came a "break" for Yale. Hare, left guard of Yale, blocked Carver's punt and Flygare fell on the ball on the five yard line. It was Yale's ball. The crowd roared

BROWN SCORES IN 1ST PERIOD

Providence, R. I., Oct. 25 (AP)—Brown and Holy Cross clashed here today on a soggy and slippery gridiron.

Brown was striving to regain her place in the eastern football sun, following her defeat by Yale last week, and Holy Cross, under its new coach Capt. Jack McEwan, former Army mentor, was seeking its first victory over the Bruins since the teams first met in 1898.

FIRST PERIOD

The period opened in a driving rain and both teams resorted to punts when line plays failed. Both completed forward passes with Harris tossing for Brown and O'Connell for Holy Cross. There was an exchange of punts with Brown having the advantage and putting the play in Purple territory. Harris took time throwing a pass to Gilmartin, who ran 28 yards for a touchdown. Harris missed the goal.

Notre Dame Defeats Pitt by 35 to 19

Pittsburgh, Oct. 25—Notre Dame defeated Pittsburgh here, 35 to 19. Seventy-five thousand saw the battle.

Brill, Schwartz and Mullins helped Notre Dame get away to a flying start, and before the 75,000 knew what was happening the Irish had scored two touchdowns. Schwartz scored the first on a 52-yard run, while Mullins made the second.

As soon as the second period started Salvodi added another touchdown and Caridco kicked the goal. Caridco, deciding to do a little scoring, grabbed a pass on Pitt's 40-yard stripe and raced unmolested for another touchdown. Caridco made the extra point.

O'CONNOR RUNS 61 YARDS

Pitt managed to pick up a first down on plunges to the Panther 37 stripe a little later, but Baker was forced to kick when a long pass failed. Rockne sent in nine new men, leaving only Savoldi in the first-string backfield, and O'Connor, sub for Brill, celebrated his entry by racing 61 yards along theside lines to the Panther goal.

He was brought back to midfield,

MORTON GETS TOUCHDOWN FOR GREEN IN 1ST PERIOD

Wolff Scores Extra Point to Give Indians Lead in First Half

The Big Green team of Dartmouth continued its victorious march by defeating Harvard on a soggy field today before a rain-soaekd audience of 60,000.

Dartmouth earned its touchdown, in the first period. After Barry Wood punted outside at the Harvard 36-yard line Bill Morton, Dartmouth pilot, made five yards on a rush through center. Morton fumbled two plays later but recovered.

Morton then punted outside at the Harvard one-foot line. Wood punted to the Harvard 27-yard stripe and Dartmouth started an offensive drive which netted it a score in six plays. Wolff kicked the point after to make the score Dartmouth 7, Harvard 0.

Late in the second period, on a blocked kick, Harvard scored a safety, making it Dartmouth 7, Harvard 2 as the half ended.

The Dartmouth team came on the field for warm-up practice 30 minutes before game time, devoting most of the time to accustoming themselves to handling the slippery ball.

FIRST PERIOD

Dartmouth won the toss and elected to receive the kickoff, defending the east end of the stadium. Teknor kicked off to Morton, who was spilled by Ogden on

INDUSTRY, STATES AND PUBLIC JOIN MOVE TO AID JOBLESS

3 GROUPS WILL DIRECT CAMPAIGN

Letters and Telegrams Pledge Support; N. E. Situation "Not Serious"

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Hoover's unemployment reliefcommittee today reported receipt of "an amazing number of letters and telegrams offering support" in the campaign to assist the nation's jobless.

Col. Arthur Woods, officially named chairman of the committee today, said industry, state governments and the public generally had responded to the appeal for aid.

"This committee," Woods said, "will work with three groups, governmental bodies, industrial organization bodies and the public. I am happy to report that hundreds of letters and telegrams that have been poured in from all parts of the country evidence that these three groups already are exerting every effort to solve the problem.

ACCUMULATIVE EFFORTS

"With co-ordination and stimulation, these efforts should grow accumulative towards an eventual solution."

As an index of one field, construction, Col. Woods said he had received word that 1500 men had just been employed for one year on a new 29-story apartment house in New York city.

It was estimated the project also would provide employment for a year for another 1,500.

Referring to the public works' bond issues aggregating $4,750,000,000 to be voted on in state elections, November 4, Woods said figures indicated these states were in sound financial condition.

NEW ENGLAND EXCEPTIONAL

Woods said he understood conditions in New England were not as serious as in other densely populated areas.

"The city of Irvington, New Jersey," he said, "should be an object lesson to other cities similarly situated. A municipal employment bureau has been organized and more than a thousand employers in that area are furnishing opportunities for work."

Woods said the Young Men's Christian Association of an Eastern State had offered its 55,000 associates for any help in furthering the program.

Col. Woods planned to leave Washington today for New York, where he will remain until Tuesday.

'Baering' Down On the News

WITH Arthur "Bugs" Baer

One year ago Wall Street forgot to hang on going around a curve.

The crash was so bad. It was the bounces that hurt.

All was lost save honor. And that wasn't listed on the exchange.

One year ago we owned a yacht. But we're better off than Tommy Lipton. He's still got his.

The same broker who told us to buy on margin is now urging us to buy outright. He gets more that way.

One year ago we were trying to work with our ear at the phone, our heart in our throat and our eye on the ticker.

It proved that a sword swallower should never take snuff.

It was a beautiful financial souse. And, on sober second thought, we're still drunk.

But we're going to be prosperous again. And, gosh, how we need it.

As the judge said, when he took the bribe, the paths of glory lead but to the gravy.

Horowitz builds homes for business of a hundred kinds.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale has a plan to help stock speculators, by making brokers "share risks" and guarantee to carry stocks a certain length of time, no matter how far they drop.

Brokers will say, if they must take the risk, or a good part of it, they might as well buy the stocks themselves and take the profits.

Mr. Fisher's suggestion will not work, although it is well meant. Another idea might work, would help business of brokers.

On the French Bourse no speculator can lose through a broker's failure. All brokers guarantee all the others. If one fails, the others make good losses of his customers.

That might be too much to ask here, with some queer ones among 1400 brokers. But a group, fifty or a hundred, of the oldest conservative Wall Street houses might form an association to guarantee each other's customers. Advertising that guarantee, they would probably get most of the business.

Husband, Ill, Aged, Halts Wife's Penny Coffee Stands

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Known from coast to coast by down and outers, the St. Andrew's coffee stands, where a cup of coffee or a bowl of soup was to be had for one cent, have been dissolved.

Founded 43 years ago by the late Mrs Clementina S. Lamadrid, the stands are estimated to have fed more than 3,000,000 persons. J. M. Lamadrid, husband of the founder, recently suffered a fractured shoulder and heart ise of this and his advanced age he said he would be unable to continue his wife's work.

Old North Church Rector 62, Weds Rich Woman 25

Rev. Francis E. Webster, 62-year-old rector of Christ Church (Old North Church), was married there at noon today to Miss Ethel A. Snell, 25, of Waltham.

Bishop Henry K. Sherrill performed the ceremony. Only members of the immediate families were present.

The bride, who becomes a step-grandmother by her marriage, is wealthy in her own right and the daughter of Mrs. Mabel G. Snell and the late Edward F. Snell, of 776 Main st., Waltham.

She was secretary to the Rev. Mr. Webster during the time he was rector of Christ Church, Waltham, which post he relinquished a year ago for that which he now holds.

The rector was a widower. He has two sons, Rev. Kirby Webster and Rev. Stephen Webster, both older than their new step-mother, and a daughter, Mrs. Frances Anderson, of Richmond, Va.

The bride was taken abroad by her mother a year ago. Although close friends of both knew the Rev. Mr. Webster was paying court to Miss Snell, announcement of their marriage was a general surprise.

They left Boston on a wedding trip.

BRAZIL SHELL KILLS 20 ON STEAMSHIP

German Liner Fired on as She Leaves Port; New Uprising Threatened

Berlin, Oct. 25 (AP)—Advices received at the Brazilian legation here today said 20 persons were killed and 35 were injured on the German ship Sachsen when it was shelled yesterday as it attempted to leave Rio de Janeiro.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 25 (AP)—Eighteen persons aboard a Hamburg-American liner were killed or wounded yesterday when a shell from Fort Chapochana hit the ship as it was leaving here for Buenos Aires. Most of the casualties were Spanish immigrants, bound for Argentine.

The revolutionary authorities explained the shot was accidental.

Capt. Juarez Tavora, commanding the northern revolutionary army, today notified the federal garrison commander at Bahia that he was not yet ready to take orders from the military junta in this city.

TO SET UP PEOPLE'S RULE.

Capt. Juarez, who has been advancing with an army of volunteers and former Federals from the State of Sergipe to Bahia, sent a message to the general commanding there demanding his surrender. The general replied that he would obey orders of the junta only.

Juarez telegraphed back that he was indifferent as to whether the general accepted his authority and that he himself would not receive orders from the Junta until the Junta showed obedience to the basic principles of democratization and moralization of the regime, for which he and the other civil and military revolutionaries of all Brazil have fought.

He continued that when he had arrived at the city of Bahia he intended to organize in the name of the people a provisional government under a responsible civilian.

Political chaos, spurred by nationwide general strike, developed today to rend the camp of the revolutionists and rival political personalities sought to plunge the nation into further sanguinary internecine conflict.

JUNTA MINISTER NAMED

In this capital a military junta, in charge temporarily, proceeded with the formation of a provisional government, the officers composing it meeting late into the night in an effort to choose officials to take over the administration. The junta appointed Juarez Tavora as minister after having reached a decision on only one office, that of minister of justice, which goes to Gabriele Bernardes.

Meanwhile, dispatches from headquarters of the southern revolutionary army, located at Ponta Grossa, State of Parana, said that Getulio Vargas, the rebel southern army generalissimo, president of the State of Rio Grande Do Sul, and defeated national presidential candidate in the recent elections, would take charge of the provisional government.

Lindolfo Collor, insurgent representative at Buenos Aires, is flying to Porto Alegre today to visit Dr. Osvaldo Aranha, acting president of Rio Grande Do Sul, and proceed with him to Rio De Janeiro to confer with the military junta. Senhor Collor asserted that Vargas would not give his assent to a military government.

Deposed President Held in Fort "For Safety"

Washington, Oct. 25 (INS)—Brazil's deposed president, Washington Luis, has been removed from Guranabara Palace to Fort Copagabana for "purposes of safety," according to a dispatch to the state department today.

A message from Consul Lawrence P. Briggs at Bahia said conditions were quiet, although there were severe disturbances last night.

Woman, 73, Faces Bad Check Charge

Brockton, Oct. 25—In order that the Waltham police might prosecute her on a false check charge, a similar charge against her here was filed when Lydia E. Graves, 73, appeared in district court today. She left the courthouse for Waltham, accompanied by a police escort from that city. According to the police the old lady is also wanted in Washington, D. C., as a fugitive from justice.

Los Angeles, Oct. 25 (AP)—Striking a woman over the heart with a golf ball may have a strange effect on that important organ. Ezra Stevens, oil executive, while playing at Phoenix, Ariz., recently, drove a ball which struck Miss Marjery Cooper, sister of the club professional. As a sequence to this novel introduction the couple today announced their marriage for next month.

STOCKS DROP AT CLOSING

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Weekend profit taking on an early one to three point advance beyond yesterday's liberal gains in active shares were normal. The close was heavy.

Farm implement shares were weak, Case losing about 12 points and International Harvester 3. Montgomery Ward touched the new low of 19⅝. U. S. Steel lost a rise of 1¾ and Westinghouse Electric yielded a 3 point advance. American Can, General Electric, Union Carbide, Woolworth, International Telephone and American Tobacco "B" sagged about 1 point net. Sales approximated 1,050,000 shares.

Athol Police Seek Missing Man and Girl

Athol, Oct. 25—Police of this town today issued a general alarm throughout New England to discover the whereabouts of Carl E. Sault, 55, of High st. The same broadcast also carried the description of Jane L. Newton, 17, of Petersham, who has been missing since Thursday.

Sault left two notes, addressed to his wife and his business partner, saying that he expected to return in a few days.

Miss Newton, a senior in Athol high school, left her home to attend classes, but did not arrive at the school. She was wearing a blue dress, white hat, leather jacket and black shoes.

CLAGGETT CITED IN STOCK SALE INQUIRY

New York Authorities Seek to Stop Him From Doing Business in State

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—An order requiring Strabo V. Claggett, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, to show cause on October 30 why he should not be enjoined from stock dealings in New York State was signed today by Supreme Court Justice Byrne in Brooklyn.

Named with Claggett as defendants are Starbo V. Claggett & Co., Inc., and the Claggett Shares Corp., both formerly located at 120 Broadway. Claggett was listed as president of both concerns.

The show cause order was issued on the motion of Deputy Atty.-Gen. Milholland in the bureau of securities.

In moving for the injunction, Mr. Milholland said although the concern was listed as an investment trust with readily marketable securities, in reality the securities held were principally stocks in companies promoted by the defendants and having little value and no market.

He said more than $300,000 was received from the sale of stock of the Claggett shares corporation, of which $200,000 was used for further promotion and stock selling.

In the sale of stock of the Metropolitan Dairy Products Corporation, Milholland said, the defendants represented that a dividend had been declared. The fact was the corporation had not declared a dividend and had no funds at that time from which to pay a dividend, he said.

The defendants also said application would be made to list the stock of the Claggett shares corporation and Metropolitan Dairy Products Company on the Boston stock exchange and the New York Curb market, but no application was made to have them listed.

Claggett today issued a statement in which he declared political trickery and a grudge of a discharged employe were responsible for the action brought against him.

"The despatch from New York is no surprise to me," said Claggett. "When politicians of a certain type are obviously beaten they are extremely likely to fight foul and descend to cheap political trickery. It is very significant that the action was brought outside the community that knows and can judge me best.

"This complaint was brought by a discharged employe with a grudge. My political enemies know what pressure or reward was offered to this employe to bring action at this time, for remember the hearing will be exactly four days before election.

"It is a commonplance, of course, that any individual can bring action against any one he chooses at any time. Such actions mean nothing. It is the outcome that is important, and of this I have no doubt. I will meet this complaint at the proper time. I am confident the voters will repudiate such obvious political manuvers tending to bring the courts into the political arena on election day".

ROYALTY AT IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Rain and Hail Descend on King and Princess at Royal Wedding

Assisi, Italy, Oct. 25 (AP)—With their own rich wedding attire and that of their party drenched by rain, Princess Giovanna of Italy and King Boris III of Bulgaria were married today in the upper basilica of the Church of St. Francis here before a gathering of kings, princes and some of the most notable folk of Europe.

The bride was in tears frequently during and after the ceremony.

The marriage ceremony was brief but impressive. The low mass which was scheduled to follow the ceremony was omitted at the last moment and no mass at all was said for the couple, one of whom is a pious Catholic and the other, Boris, a member of the Orthodox or Greek Catholic Church.

The three royal trains bearing the wedding party from Pisa arrived nearly an hour and a half late and as Princess Giovanna, attired in white stepped from her coach on to the red carpeted platform a heavy drizzle commenced.

Closed cars were substituted for the open ones it had been planned to use for the drive along the streets lined with troops to the church. At the Basilica's portal an umbrella was held out for Giovanna, who is a pretty blonde girl of 22, but a sudden burst of rain caught her and her dress badly.

Inside the church the bridal party had difficulty in forming for the march down the center aisle, out after some delay this was done and while the choir of 120 voices sang the stirring Latin invocation, "O Lord, Make Safe Our King," they circled about the altar for the ceremony.

By Pope's Consent

Fr. Risso, custodian of the basilica, read the marriage ceremony which explained that, although a union in matrimony of a Roman Catholic and a non-Catholic ceremony itself was possible only by special dispensation of the Pope, who ruled that Giovanna might marry Boris if any children born of the marriage be brought up in the Catholic church. Only there was no succeeding Catholic ceremony.

After a short speech of congratulation and benediction from Fr. Risso, the royal bride and groom left the outer church for the lower for a visit to the tomb of St. Francis, located there.

After the ceremony at the church the party went to the City hall where the marriage was entered in the civil registers. Just at noon Giovanna appeared in the doorway on the arm of her royal husband. Both smiled as the massed bands broke into the Bulgarian National anthem and the crowd of 3000 or more below cheered.

NO ROYAL JEWELS

Assembled within the church for the wedding were a distinguished company of something more than 500 persons, the women in long gowns with high necks and long sleeves, and wearing white veils. In the train behind the bride and groom as they proceeded from the upper church and the lower church and the crypt of St. Francis were the King and Queen of Italy, Victor Emmanuel and Elena, former Queen Sophie of Greece, the former Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and 54 princes and princesses from all over Europe. Premier Mussolini, in full ministerialist costume, brought up the rear.

The bride's witnesses at the wedding were Crown Prince Humbert and Count Calvi De Bergolo, husband of her sister, Yolanda. At the city hall Prince Philip of Hesse, husband of her sister Masalda, and the Duke of Aosta, attested to her marriage. In both ceremonies Prince Cyril, brother of Boris, and the duke of Wuertemberg acted for Boris.

After the two ceremonies the party went to the Villa Costanza, where the wedding breakfast was held. The menu consisted of especially prepared eggs, lobster, roast pheasant, various vegetables, ice cream and coffee and six different kinds of wine, all Italian.

Chamber of Commerce Aids Drive for Jobs

(Have you an odd job to be done? Call the Municipal Employment Bureau, Liberty 8697, or mail the attached coupon.)

Two score jobs, for both men and women, were filled at the Municipal Employment Bureau, 25 Church st., today. They included a request for six additional waiters, made by Miss Eleonora Sears. The ushers were sent to the Boston Garden, where the horse show was taking place.

These jobs for ushers made a total of 44 dozen provided by Miss Sears.

Inside work, including paperhanging, general work, kalsomining and auto top repairing, was distributed to the first applicants.

Women reported to the bureau in fewer numbers than any day previous, due to the storm, but those who did apply were promptly given work.

Representatives of the Cambridge Laundry will show motion pictures of their plant Monday morning to a group of girls desiring positions as saleswomen. A large room in the bureau will be turned into a movie house for the showing of the reels. After the films have been shown, the candidates will be interviewed and the girls best fitted for the jobs will be chosen.

EMPLOYERS PLEASED

Vigorous action by the Chamber of Commerce today gave impetus to the Boston Evening American's campaign to give odd jobs to the needy unemployed.

Six thousand business concerns were asked to fall into line with the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Curley, the Municipal Employment Bureau and the Boston Evening American to relieve distress.

Where firms were appealed to by Carl P. Dennett, acting president of the Chamber of Commerce, in a personal letter, in which he declared:

"This is your opportunity."

"Very satisfactory" is the report made to the Municipal Employment Bureau by a great majority of the men and women who have given odd jobs to the unemployed, as urged by the Boston Evening American.

The third day of this campaign again saw the bureau doing a brisk business, and once more nearly 100 men and women were given work.

John J. Shields, director of the bureau, said today that after the week-end he expects a big increase in requests for workers.

"Check up and see what odd jobs you need done around your homes, buildings and offices over the week-end." In his request to residents of Greater Boston, and he believes this will be done even without his suggestion.

In his letter to Chamber members, Mr. Dennett cited reasons for business optimism, showed how business could help and added:

"I seriously urge upon every member and upon business men as a whole throughout Metropolitan Boston to join me in a vigorous effort to quicken the end of this readjustment period, by saving a job for some man and giving a new one to a worker who is waiting to fill it.

"The Boston municipal employment bureau at 25 Church st., telephone Liberty 8697, has a list of applicants covering nearly every trade and occupation, from which a selection will be gladly made for you upon your request.

"I urge every business man who can take advantage of this bureau's service to communicate at once with the director of that bureau."

Gratifying assistance was given by Miss Eleanors Sears, noted Boston society sportswoman, when she hired six men from the municipal bureau to be ushers at the international horse show

Aid also came from Dr. Bernard Finkelstein of 1203 Blue Hill ave., Dorchester, who is endeavoring, by personal request, to induce all his friends, merchants, contractors, manufacturers, professional men and others to give odd jobs to the needy. The first man he placed to work today for the Eastern Electric Co. 453 Washington st.

"Odd jobs" means that painting, repairing, cleaning you should have done now, although perhaps you were deferring it until later. How about that yard that needs digging, that walk that is out of repair, that furnace and flue that must be in shape for the winter, that wood for the fireplace?

If you could see the hope in the faces of those waiting to be sent to work, the gladness with which they receive cards sending them out on jobs, if you could visualize the happiness it means, even though briefly, to their families at home—wouldn't you help, too?

35 TO OPPOSE WAGE CUT

Although "Golden Rule Jim" Daly insists that all employes of his plants had voluntarily cooperated in his plan for a 25 per cent reduction in wages in an effort to stimulate production and sales, Clyde Mitchell, business agent of the Edgemakers Union, an independent local, announced that 35 edgemakers of the Daly plant would refuse to accept the cut and would strike if necessary.

It also was revealed that general reduction in wages of 25 per cent is being requested by many Lynn shoe manufacturers as a result of the announcement of the Golden Rule Shoe Co.

Daly returned last night from New York, armed, he said, with sufficient orders to keep the envelopes of his 1000 or more employes filled until Christmas, when business will return to normal because manufacture of the spring lines will then begin.

The Golden Rule head issued a statement upbraiding other manufacturers for "using me for a weapon to cut their help." He asserted that these manufacturers were misrepresenting him.

N. E. HIT BY BIG GALE AS N. H. GETS SNOW

Wire Service Crippled and Trees Down; Shipping Also Suffers

New England was hard hit today by the most severe October rain and snow storm in five years.

Hundreds of trees were blown down, highway were blocked, automobiles marooned, telephone lines put out of commission and ships torn from their moorings.

In many sections of New Hampshire and Vermont traffic was at a complete standstill.

At Lost River, N. H., 20 inches of snow fell, while Twin Mountain and Bretton Woods, N. H., reported 15 to 17 inches, Jefferson, N. H., was blanketed by 12 inches.

Other places that reported heavy falls included Temple and Peterboro, N. H., 14 inches; Berlin, N. H., 9 inches; Glencliffe and Pike, N. H., 6 to 8 inches; Benton, 7 inches.

AUTOS MAROONED

Although Boston had its first snow of the season, a few flakes falling early before noon, the city itself escaped the brunt of the storm, but both North and South Shores were lashed by surf that the gale drove over the sea walls at Winthrop and Nantasket.

According to advices from Woodsville, N. H., the heaviest October snow ever recorded in that section fell. Many telephone and telegraph lines were down in that area and highways were effectively blocked.

Game Warden George E. Procter of Wilton reported 40 automobiles farooned in 14 inches of snow between Peterboro and Temple.

A power transmission line was broken down at St. Johnsbury, Vt., putting the fire alarm system of that place out of order. The weight of the snow, mixed with rain, felled 25 trunk lines near St. Johnsbury.

TOLL LINES DOWN

All toll circuits between Portland and Montreal were out of commission with one exception. One thousand telephones in St. Johnsbury were out of use. Fifty telephone poles in the vicinity of St. Johnsbury were leveled over by the heavy wind that accompanied the storm.

In addition, the transmission line of the Twin State Gas & Electric Company from Gorham, N. H., to Johnsbury, was down. Repairs were difficult as hundreds of limbs were blown from trees and littered the highways and roads.

Although snow was reported generally in southern New England the fall was not heavy.

The coast was battered by a 60-mile wind that drove the surf high over seawalls and kept the coast guard and life saving crafts busy rescuing craft adrift from moorings.

TWO ARE RESCUED.

Two persons were rescued from a cottage at Hough's Neck by Quincy police who used a rowboat. A cottage in which a man and his wife were living was surrounded by water several feet deep. Their plight was observed by other residents, who notified the police. A rowboat was obtained and soon the couple were safely removed.

Waves eight feet high, driven by a gale force wind, piled water into Sea st until it was more than a foot deep along the entire thoroughfare. The foundations of five cottages were undermined. It was estimated the monetary damage would amount high.

Seven pleasure craft that broke from their moorings were picked up by the coast guard at Point Allerton, Hull, base as the high wind tore a 75 foot gash in it. 75 feet wide, from the Pacific House at Nantasket.

SHIP GOES AGROUND

The most serious accident on the sea was the grounding of the 5,000 ton freight steamship Katrina Luckenbach, which left Boston yesterday for Mobile, Ala., and piled up on a ledge off Juniper Point, near Woods Hole.

After being stuck for nearly eight hours, the freighter, in command of Capt. R. Punjer, backed off into deep water and proceeded toward her destination, apparently uninjured. The Luckenbach carries a crew of 40 men and is running lights for its first service. She carried no passengers or cargo.

AIELLO SLAYING RENEWS FEUD

Chicago, Oct. 25 (AP)—The assassination of Joe Aiello, wealthy "alcohol king" and foe of Alphonse Capone, was viewed by police today as a possible forerunner for further slayings in Chicago's gangland.

Belief was expressed by them that George (Bugs) Moran, reputed partner of Aiello, who was shot down from ambush on the northwest side last Thursday night, may be the next target of machine gun bullets.

In this connection the Chicago Herald and Examiner said today that Aiello death "halted a well-organized plot to slay Al Capone."

Spreckels Girl Must Pay for Necklace

San Francisco, Oct. 25 (INS)—Tiffany & Company, New York jewelers, today had won a $64,927 judgment against Sidi Wirt Spreckels, now the wife of Lieut. Roger Allen Gardner of the army air corps. PARTY CHIEFS TO WELCOME AL SMITH

Meeting Is Held to Arrange Public Reception to N. Y. Ex-Governor

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Final plans for a public welcome to former Governor Al Smith of New York, who comes to Boston next Tuesday to deliver a speech in the Arena in the interests of Democratic success in the State election, November 4, were discussed today by local Democratic chieftains.

The decision of the former presidential candidate not to make the trip from Providence to Boston by automobile has proved a great disappointment to the cities and towns along the proposed route.

The Democratic leader, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Smith, said he was not a candidate now and wished to avoid the appearance of a "hippodrome."

CONVICT LABOR HIT

"Continuing his aggressive campaign against Governor Allen, Joseph B. Ely, Democratic candidate for chief executive, last night addressed rallies in Lowell, Lawrence and Everett, denounced the use of convict labor at the new state prison in Norfolk, "while thousands of artisans and mechanics are walking the street."

He charged that the governor "has not been square with the people in his statements.

"He dodges, he straddles, he procrastinates, he boasts," Ely maintained.

The Westfield man again accused Governor Allen of "bargaining votes for judgeships" and called upon him to enlighten the people on where he stands on these issues:

The Boston Elevated.

The Eighteenth Amendment.

Mr. Ely reiterated that not one dollar of the state's money was appropriated or expended because of the unemployment situation.

He declared that the highways of the state are worse than New York and Connecticut roads and without one single through trunk line that can be called a completed road or even remotely adequate for the necessities of travel.

ON "BEEF TRUST"

Linking up the governor with the beef trust, as chairman of the executive committee of Winslow Bros. and Smith Co., Mr. Ely insinuated that the governor has been active in attempting to "attain a consent decree in the Federal Court of United States for the modification of the anti-trust decision against Armour which would permit it to engage directly in the distribution of its products."

Reminding the governor that he recently advocated a reduction in the number of hours, Mr. Ely said:

"Tell the people whether you not you have advocated a reduction in the hours of labor."

Rep. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, in a radio speech, appealed to the "independent voters, progressive Republicans, followers of La Follette and Roosevelt to keep William M. Butler, "reactionary," out of the Senate by voting for Marcus A. Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge, at rallies in Lawrence and Lowell, charged his opponent with having been "a $100,000 lobbyist for big business."

Over the radio and at a rally conducted by the Young Men's Republican Social League of Boston, in Mechanics Bldg., Governor Allen, last night, declared that the tactics of his opponent "must certainly provoke the indignation of the sane, patriotic citizens of the commonwealth."

Answering the charge that no money was spent to relieve unemployment, he alluded to the one item of $18,000,000 for road construction.

Fourteen representatives from the oldest Women's Clubs in this State will speak on "Ideals and Ideas of Clubs of Fifty Years Ago and More" at the fall meeting of the State Federation of the Women's Clubs, to be held in Worcester next Tuesday.

The speakers will be Dr. Elizabeth M. Briggs, vice-president of the Ladies' Physiological Institute, Boston, 1847; Mrs. Edgar B. Cole president Ladies' Library Association, Randolph, 1855; Mrs. Franklin E. Smith, president New England Women's Club, Boston, 1868; Mrs Edward E. Allen, president Wednesday Morning Club, Boston, 1869; Mrs. S. Willard Coy, president, Home Club, East Boston 1875; Mrs. W. H. Sperry, president, Monday Club, North Adams, 1876

Others will be Mrs. Eva Whiting White, president, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, 1877; Mrs. Ray C. Hopkins, president, Women's Club, Lynn, 1878; Mrs. George S. Manafield, past president, Old and New Club, Malden, 1878, Mrs. Annie L. Howard, president, Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to G. A. R., Boston, 1879; Mrs. Raymond O. Litchfield, president, Women's Educational Club, West Newton, 1880; Miss Georgie A. Bacon, president, Woman's Club, Worcester, 1880, who is a past president of the State Federation; Mrs. Ashley W. Hayden, president, The Fortnightly, Winchester, 1881; and Mrs. Harold L. Bradley, president, Thought Club, Hyde Park, 1881.

Another interesting item on the morning program will be the talk by Mrs. George C. Harrison, chairman of Better Films Council, Rhode Island State Federation, introduced by the president of that body, Mrs. Warren Haskell.

Quincy Woman's Club Will Be Hostess to District Director

Mrs. George E. Gounley, district director, will preside at the Second District conference, to be held at Quincy, next Wednesday, Oct. 29, with the Quincy Woman's Club as hostess. The state chairmen of the departments will give reports and hold Round Table discussions during the morning session. The afternoon program will be in charge of Mrs. Roy C. Baker, state chairman of the art department, assisted by Mrs. Charles L. Seavey.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, past president of the State Federation, will be the luncheon speaker. Honor guests will be Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Mrs. Carl A. Schrader, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, Mrs. Heman Harding, Mrs. John M. Kimball, Mrs. Charles F. Adler, Mrs. Homer P. Ingall, and Mrs. Franklin Nichols, president of the Quincy Federation.

Blue Makes New Bid for Popularity

MODEL FROM GEORGE M. WETHERN CO.

(ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

NEW OUTDOOR fashions already up and about are walking toward great fame for winter. Admirable barriers to the chilliest winds, they are treats to the eye. As bright and young looking as college freshmen or the proverbial silver dollar. Practical assets in wardrobes that must go many places. Decidedly novel and unquestionably chic.

FIRST IN the pioneering trio is the tweed coat with matching beret. If this is not the big hit of the season, then many fashionists will be missing their guesses—and many smart girls and women will be going without something that could do a lot for them fashionably and economically.

* * *

YOU ALREADY know what marvels of color and design have been accomplished in tweeds. If you are not acquainted with the stunning new cuts in tweed coats, consider your fashion education woefully lacking. And if you don't appreciate the beret and coat combine, when you have seen it, it will probably be because you saw and bought something else first.

BLUE, SO strong a note in summer fashions, seems to have been cried down in the great ovation given inky shades, greens and browns. But the worm has turned, so to speak, and we now see many tweed mixtures in blue coming to the fore. As yet blue is the choice of the exclusive few who become tired of the much exploited colors, and seek something a bit more individual.

THE SWAGGER sports coat pictured is ideal topping a wool frock to brave the chill of a football stadium. Of gray-blue mixture tweed, it is semi-fitted, has a capacious pocket which buttons securely, and enormous shawl collar, and deep cuffs of natural lynx—its creamy shade blending with the coat material, as does the chenille beret.

SINCE GLOVES have become so completely fashion and ensemble-conscious, whether one should wear the short pigskin gloves or the longer suede gloves with the tweed suit is a serious question. Now comes word of new woolen gloves to ensemble with tweeds. The fabric used appears in flecked colorings simulating tweeds.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WHDH.

Fullers Host to Veterans

Hampton, N. H., Oct. 25 — More than 100 disabled veterans were entertained by Alvan T. Fuller, former governor of Massachusetts, at a clambake at his summer house, Little Boars Head, here yesterday. It was the tenth year that Fuller has had veterans from the various hospitals in the state as his guests.

Mrs. Fuller was present with the children, Lydia, Mary, Alvan, Jr., and Peter. In addition to receiving the veterans, 54 of whom came from the Veterans' Hospital at Bedford, 29 from the Naval Hospital at Chelsea, 12 from the Veterans' hospital at Rutland, 11 from the State Hospital at Mattapan and eight from the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea. Three buses and 16 motor cars were required to bring the veterans to and from the outing.

On the way up, the veterans stopped at Runnymede farm to inspect Fuller's herd of 71 thoroughbred Guernsey cattle and his Kentucky horses. Milk was served fresh from the dairy as the veterans left the huge barn.

The veterans were led by James P. Tivnan, vice department commander of the American Legion. The Rev. J. Lester Hawkins, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Lynn, the department chaplain, and James E. Conway, assistant officer in charge of veterans' bureau and the hospitals, assisted Fuller in handling the veterans, a number of whom required the assistance of nurses.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

I am an old man of 80 years. During that time, I've seen many changes in Boston and New York city. In both cities many radical changes have taken place. Ever since your paper was published in this city I have read it. Why, I remember distinctly, no newspapers had pictures in them. Take the New York Herald, for instance, we had to read the print without being helped by a picture. Then, when the comics came, one being helped by a picture. Then, when the comics came, one Boston newspaper had them for a time, and dropped them, only to take them up later.

Pictures and comics are worth so much to the coming generation. To go back, I call to mind when on the Sixth ave. horse cars in New York city, just after the war, this sign appeared in front of the cars: "Colored People Allowed in This Car." Just think of that sort of thing today in Boston on electric cars.

We have changed for the better all around. One thing, however, bothers me a great deal. It is this distinction that is going around between "Drys" and "Wets." It is making trouble. It is, however, a better and more enjoyable world to live in, with its many modern improvements, than when I began breathing here.

Mrs. Frothingham Denies Dishonesty in 18th Amendment

Editor Boston American:

Our "Wets" believe that the amendment they detest was "put over on them"; dishonestly masqueraded before their guileless eyes as the lamb of mere wartime prohibition to which they spoke kind words, while the hidden fangs of a wolf-like permanent law were being sharpened for their throats.

Of all measures incorporated into our Constitution the eighteenth was the least secret, the last to deserve the epithet "dishonest." It received a majority vote in Congress even before the war. Some years later it was passed by the largest majority ever accorded an amendment, and then given an unprecedented chance for reconsideration.

Unlike its 17 sisters, the eighteenth could only become law if 36 states ratified it within a time limit of seven years.

Within one year all but three states had ratified, and this was many more than were asked for, and acting within a period much shorter than required.

Opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment is hydra-headed. It is sometimes a parlor game, sometimes a sincere conviction, a cherished grievance and a criminal proceeding.

This autumn we see it at work trying to repeal our Baby Volstead Act. We think this is done partly because of a naive wish to "restore a temperance" which never existed, partly because of an often honest and always naive conviction that the evils of present liquor conditions will somehow cease to be when the power of enforcing liquor laws is diminished. Also, there are other reasons!

EUGENIA B. FROTHINGHAM.

"Public Be Damned" Laid to Ill on Mattapan Branch

Editor Boston American:

I wish to bring to your attention conditions prevailing on the Mattapan branch of the Boston Elevated.

Against the wishes of a majority of the residents of the section served, the N. Y. N. H. & H. branch from Harrison sq. to Mattapan was taken over and rebuilt and leased to the B. E. Co.

As usual no provision was made for the growth of the district. Instead of a three track line, which would permit express trains during the rush hours, only two tracks were built. The loading platforms will only accommodate four cars, which makes it impossible to run longer trains.

Have one of your reporters cover the Milton stop on this line from 7 a. m. to 8:30 and see the crowded condition of the cars at this stop, which is the third stop from the end of the line.

Until recently the B. E. operated cars with trailers during the rush hours, but lately they have been operating single cars, with the result that they are crowded to capacity even at Milton on incoming cars. Patrons at Fields Corner never have a seat on incoming trains, and patrons of any station beyond Fields Corner never have a seat until they pass Fields Corner going out, unless they board the train prior to its arrival at the South Station.

The B. E. is operated by a board of trustees appointed by the governor and they are certainly setting a poor example to private concerns in economizing to the extent they do in their employment of labor, and seem to have the old "Public Be Damned Policy" to a far greater extent than does the road was operated by private capital.

R. L. TIRRELL.

Says Prohibition Is on Test in Election

Editor Boston American:

Prohibition stands today before the bar of public opinion, charged with the responsibility of the following:

Throwing 1,800,000 men and women out of employment.

The sacrifice of more than 1,400 lives of American citizens by bullets.

Causing the death of thousands from poisoned liquor.

Bringing blindness and paralysis to thousands of our unfortunate brothers.

Breeding crime, corruption, and vice in its most hideous form.

The intelligent electorate of Massachusetts, stirred to a white heat of indignation, will pass judgment on these serious charges, Nov. 4.

They will hold the wing of the Republican party that is dominated by the Anti-Saloon League to strict accountability. They will bring in a verdict of guilty, by voting against all political candidates who have the backing of that intolerant and liberty destroying organization, which is the enemy of good government and good citizenship.

They will emphatically register their opinion by electing Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Ely, and other candidates who are pledged to work for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act.

A divine Providence has ordained that the rays of light and truth shall shine forth, and pierce the murky veil of ignorance, intemperance and hypocrisy, that has beclouded the minds and warped the judgment of sincere but misguided men and women.

The "handwriting is on the wall" and nothing can divert it from fulfilment of its promise of a better day.

Business Depression Article Stirs Reader

Editor Boston American:

I am a constant reader of your paper and especially like to follow up your editorials, but I must say (as my personal opinion of this article) it is a poor way to illustrate the why and cause of business depression.

If you are not a pacifist or an upholder of the League of Nations the army and navy would not appeal to you as a detrimental cause. I also say you have the same selfish idea that the pensioners of this country are a detriment to business.

Income tax is, as it should be, levied on the avaricious and greedy corporations and individuals.

You know all large employers of help reap the harvest of big profit. The workers get enough to live on, and the string-pulling grafters that do not work get some of the cream.

Prohibition was forced on the people either directly or indirectly and you know what has come of that. That and crime I'll admit are as one, and suits your illustration O. K.

You say business depends on business men. That is true if your so-called business men do business square. I do not have to tell you that if all business was done that way it would be a blessing to the world.

It is often printed in your paper the amounts in the savings of the city, state or county, and as the per capita quotation means nothing to millions, and does mean everything to the thousands of millionaires and very rich, that is that.

This country has thousands of laws that benefit the few and no laws that benefit the humble and poor.

One cause of unemployment is the greed of individual families to get all the jobs and the head of a house that has a mother to take care of children (because they happen to be human enough to raise a family) have to loaf in order to keep same greedy wife or others that might easily give a job to the head of the family, is needed in our law making or in our business manipulations.

ALBERT W. HURLBURT.

Sidewalks on Roads Would Cut Auto Toll

Editor Boston American:

I agree with Bishop Cassidy of Fall River that all State highways as well as town and city highways should have at least one sidewalk even though wide enough for only two people. Furthermore, the sidewalk should be of permanent construction. Many people have been slaughtered on our highways because of the fact that cars operating at night cause momentary blindness of the operators while passing each other in opposite directions.

Most people are aware of it and for that reason are careful not to walk on the right hand side of the highway. The average cost of State highways (macadam) per mile is $40,000 and it would cost but $5000 additional to build a concrete sidewalk four feet wide which is only about 12 per cent additional. To build a sidewalk of dirt would not help matters at all as people would prefer to take the chance of walking on the smooth surface of the roadway to the safety of walking on a rough dirt sidewalk. Since the people in the end pay all public bills why not let them pay for something that would give them a certain measure of comfort and safety.

A DIURETIC FOR THE KIDNEYS

1 DEAD, 4 SHOT IN GAMING RAID

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—A policeman, a gunman and four other persons are suffering from gunshot wounds today, from a battle which ensued when three robbers held up a cigar store while police were raiding it for gambling. One gunman was killed.

Patrolman Timothy Hushion and Harry F. Coleman went to a cigar store on Madison ave. near 10th st., last night, to investigate complaints of gambling. They found 25 men playing cards.

The officers lined the card players against the wall and sent for Abraham Gersin, the proprietor. When Gersin entered three men followed him.

"Stick 'em up," said one.

Hushion reached for his gun and one of the robbers fired, wounding the policeman in the leg. Coleman then shot the gunman, killing him instantly. Hushion turned his pistol on another thug, wounding him twice.

When the smoke cleared it was found that Gersin and two of the card players were wounded.

$37,251 RAISED IN CAMPAIGN

New pledges yesterday, the fourth day of the campaign for $750,000 by the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, totalling $37,251 were recorded at the luncheon meeting of captains and workers in the headquarters, Province building. This is the largest amount received on any one day. The total to date is $431,646.

J. L. Wiseman presided at the luncheon. He spoke at some length on the splendid response which the drive is meeting with, in spite of the hard times.

The greatest amount reported by any one team yesterday was $9211 announced by A. M. Bonnabend, who is captain of the real estate team. Sidney Rabinovitz reported $6398 for the food team; Hy Wines reported for the chain stores and dairies team, and Sidney H. Rabinovits for the meat team. Benjamin Sugarman reported the formation of a radio team, of which he is captain. He contributed $500 personally to start off his team.

The women's division reported $5000 additional, making their total receipts $22,870.

Lindy Quits Business to Give Crippled Boys Autographs

Newark, N. J., Oct. 25 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, broke his rule of refusing to give his autograph for the first time here today. Eight small boys, all crippled, spotted the colonel at the inaugural of the new all-air transcontinental route. The youngsters, hampered by steel braces and crutches, struggled in the crowd of 500 to approach.

Lindbergh, seeing their plight, excused himself to the officials, shouldered his way to the boys and autographed an envelope for each.

All-Air Line Across Continent Opened

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—The first of all-air passenger and mail line to connect New York and the West Coast was inaugurated today, 11 planes taking off at approximately the same time in various sections.

The cross country journey is to be made in 36 hours elapsed time, with ships flying during daylight of two days. The line is run by Transcontinental & Western Air.

PLOT ON LIFE OF CAROL BARED

Vienna, Oct. 25 (INS)—Discovery of a plot to assassinate King Carol of Rumania and blow up the royal palace in Bucharest was announced by the Rumanian police today, according to reports received here from Bucharest.

The assassination attempt was scheduled to take place at the opening of the Rumanian parliament, the reports stated.

The plot was said to have been unearthed during a series of raids directed against an alleged pro-Soviet espionage system resulting in more than 100 arrests.

R. I. Antis Indorse Metcalf and Gerry

Providence, Oct. 25 (AP)—Reporting today on the results of a questionnaire sent to all Rhode Island candidates for State and municipal offices, the Rhode Island division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced that "it prefers" Peter Goelet Gerry, former United States senator and a Democrat, for election to the United States Senate but indorses both him and Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, Republican contender of re-election.

TWO AMERICANS SEIZED IN CHINA

London, Oct. 25 (INS)—Marauding bandits in eastern China captured the town of Loshan, lower Honan Province, and were believed to be holding two American missionaries for ransom, dispatches to newspapers today said.

The captives, of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, were believed to be the Rev. Knivedt and Miss Evenson. Advices to Shanghai headquarters of the Lazarist mission said priests had been informed Bishop Sheehan of Streator, Ill., was safe near Fuchow.

Crash Victim's Mother Dies

Bedford, England, Oct. 25 (AP)—The mother of C. A. Burton, engineer, who lost his life in the R-101 disaster died here today of grief and shock resulting from the crash.

MR. CARROLL TAKES THE ROSTRUM

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

VIEWING IT BROADLY, there seems to be many points of divergence in this guerrilla warfare in the arts now occupying the attention of John M. Casey, public protector of morals, and Earl Carroll, whose departing Sketch Book has upset the customary calm of Mr. Casey's daily choring. If the theater is to thrive or lie dormant only on the permission of snipers that peck away on isolated spots, there is small consolation for the hungry playgoer.

* * *

WHATEVER VIRTUES, or abominations, were contained in Mr. Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book," scarcely none, especially the abomination s, were left untouched by the solemn Mr. Casey. Why these boys should continue to quarrel on the general principles of art is not easy of solution. Apparently each is aiming at the same target — artistic entertainmen t for the plodding patron. Giving the local estrangement a liberal interpretation, it would appear that Mr. Carroll believes in fewer clothes, with Mr. Casey committed to heavier raiment, possibly a touch, here and there, of good old winter reds.

Nicholas Young

FOR NO REASON whatever, which we can discover, the snipers are still at it. Casey taking pot shot at Carroll, and the latter gentleman doing his modest best in a personal appearance on the Shubert stage. The boys do not agree. That was made clear last night when Mr. Carroll chased Will Mahoney off the stage to give himself a little time in his own show.

WITHOUT MENTIONING names, Mr. Carroll in his talk to his own audience casually mentioned lapses in local theater censorship that for some time have been the town's chief bewilderment. That the Carroll references were not without point was indicated by the noisy acclaim of the audience that took full note of Earl Carroll in person as an extra attraction in a smart show. Mr. Carroll's speech was temperate, but it did grow warm when he quoted Mr. Casey as saying:

"I believe that Boston, its theatergoers and the theater as an institution, will be better off if Mr. Carroll will make good his threat to confine his productions to other parts of the country."

THERE HAD been rumors that Mr. Carroll was done with Boston—angrily done with it. If you listened to him last night, and believed him, you knew it was not so. Quite frankly he intimated that Mr. Casey could not drive him out of town; that he proposed to give his best productions to Boston in the future and comply with all regulations.

* * *

TO MOST OF US, the Earl Carroll squabble with City Hall is just another incident in a tremulous theatrical season. To some of us, Mr. Casey is a white angel of virtue; to others he is a petulant meddler. For the general good of the theater we would like to suggest that the boys relent a bit, shake hands and start a new deal.

COMPOSER IS GUEST AT SYMPHONY

By MOSES SMITH

The principal interest of this week's concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra lies in a Symphony in G minor, composed by the Frenchman, Albert Charles Paul Rousse1, for the 50th anniversary of the orchestra, and played yesterday for the first time, with the composer as honored guest. The other numbers of an all-French program are Rameau's "Ballet Suite," arranged by Felix Mottl, Debussy's "La Mer" and Ravel's "La Valse."

The performance of the Rousse1 symphony had been preceded by elaborate expectations. A veritable masterpiece had been predicted. Perhaps that reason, and also the fact that we were hearing an involved work for the first time, accounted for this writer's disappointment.

In form and in emotional content and style the symphony is akin to that of Cesar Franck. In the uncompromising abruptness of statement of many of the pages, however, the work is at the very opposite extreme. In other words, it is ultra-modern. Harmonically the score is free, not in the latest atonal fashion, but free in the sense, at least, that the composer uses chords and combinations of chords as he needs them, not by academic prescription.

The orchestration is ingenious, the form and treatment masterly. And the musical ideas—on which a work stands or falls, in the last analysis—are arresting. Our disappointment, despite all these things, lies largely in the pallid and anemic quality of this musical emotion. While the symphony is Franckian, it is a Franck either over-sentimental or—at the opposite pole—world-weary.

The performance, brilliant in many respects, may not have reflected the true character of the work. We speak with reservations about so ticklish a point.

THERE ARE SMILES TO MAKE THE AUDIENCES HAPPY

With a most expensive cast and a most pretentious production, Florenz Ziegfeld will deposit his latest musical comedy, "Smiles," on the stage of the Colonial next Tuesday evening. It will remain for eleven nights and four matinees. The talented Marilyn Miller, and the inimitable Fred and Adele Astaire are stars of this colorful extravaganza.

This trio of stellar lights has never before appeared on any stage together and the fact that Ziegfeld is employing their histrionic gifts in his newest production is testimony that he is sparing no expense to make "Smiles" his most notable achievement in the theater. Equally bright as the stars is the staff of writers gathered by Ziegfeld for "Smiles." William Anthony McGuire, who has to his credit such successes as "Three Musketeers," "Whoopee" and "Rosalie," wrote the book. Vincent Youmans, who composed the score of "Hit the Deck," has invented the tinkling melodies for "Smiles." The lyrics are the joint work of Clifford Grey and Harold Adamson.

Florenz Ziegfeld

Upon the shoulders of Sammy Lee has fallen the task of creating new terpsichorean ideas for the large ensemble of glorified beauties gathered from all over America by the discerning Ziegfeld. That Lee is equal to the task is evidenced by the fact that he staged the dances in scores of outstanding successes, notably "Show Boat." Theodore Kosloff, one of the world's greatest dancers, has staged Marilyn Miller's solo numbers. Joseph Urban, who has an imaginative flare for color and lighting, has designed the settings, and John Harkrider acts as artistic director.

The cast of "Smiles," in addition to Marilyn Miller and the Astaires, includes Tom Howard, Paul Gregory, Eddie Foy, Jr., Harriette Lake, Georgia Caine, Clyde Hager, Harry Tighe, Joseph Lyons, Kathryn Hereford, Adrian Rosley, Larry Adler and Lorraine Jaillet.

In two acts and 10 scenes, "Smiles" tells a dramatic story of a little orphan girl adopted by four soldiers behind the firing lines in France where the story opens. The scene shifts to New York's East Side. "Smiles," played by Marilyn Miller, has now grown to beautiful womanhood, and the soldiers who adopted her naturally lose their hearts to the orphan girl. Love, after many dramatic episodes, finally comes to "Smiles."

THREE STARS SHINE OUT

Three new film stars make their bows this week. They are Spencer Tracy, Claire Luce and Joan ("Cherie") Lawes, who are portraying featured characters in the laugh provoking "Up the River," at the Fenway today, and on the Scollay screen tomorrow.

For the important role of the warden's daughter, Director John Ford chose Joan ("Cherie") Lawes. To get the most out of her role it was only necessary that she act natural as in real life she is the daughter of Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison, New York, and prison walls and bars are every day things in her life.

SUPPORT FOR BRAIN MUST BE TASTE

By PHILIP MERIVALE

Nobody can be taught to act. Beginners can be taught certain things that serve as valuable equipment for acting. But taste and intelligence which are the basic equipment for the fine artist in any line, must be inborn. Given brains, the ambitious young actor or actress is assured of a career.

Young people who ask my opinion as to whether they have a talent for the stage are answered: "Have you a talent for work? Success on the stage does not mean a relaxation of endeavor, as in certain business professions. Theatrical success means, not less, but more work—the opportunity to accomplish greater tasks."

My training in the art of reading blank verse came from my thorough grounding in Shakespearean repertory. I have played all the lesser and most of the major characters in the great bard's play gallery. I had followed a business career in London just long enough to discover the route to the stage door. I made my debut at the Coronet Theater, London, in a revival of the Greek tragedy, "Orestes." Then for three years I was a member of the F. R. Benson repertory company where I was advanced from the lesser to the greater Shakespearean roles. I had to work very hard to win success.

I was engaged by Sir Herbert Tree to appear with His Majesty's Theater Company, an association which lasted for a considerable period. In 1914, I made my American debut in Shaw's "Pygmalion" with Mrs. Patrick Campbell. Since then I have played many roles on both sides of the Atlantic. Three recent productions, "The Road to Rome," "The Jealous Moon" and "Faust and Francesca" were all in support of Jane Cowl.

Honeyed Look

CLAIRE LUCE

MISS LUCE shines in the comedy, "Up the River," on the Scollay and Fenway screens.

LOST SIGHT IS WON BACK

Blanche Friderici, veteran stock and screen actress who appears in King Vidor's "Billy the Kid," at Loew's State next week, rose to high position on the stage after she had despaired of ever winning back her eyesight. Miss Friderici, born and educated at Brooklyn, studied voice and drama under Rose Eytinge, Sara Cowell LeMoyne and May Robson. When she was 20, she was conducting her own classes and her own concert company.

Suddenly her sight failed. She could scarcely read a line and in a year's time there was slight improvement. She played 100 weeks in stock in Portland, Me. She visited a Portland doctor who gradually improved the condition of her eyes until her vision was completely restored.

TIME FLIES AND FILMS AS WELL

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

WHEN HOWARD HUGHES was making "Hell's Angels" out in Southern California, there were scoffers who predicted a "flop," to the tune of a huge setback in the Hughes fortune. But the proof of the pudding is in the eating; and the way the public has gobbled up the epic picture indicates its producer will be on the credit side of the ledger by a comfortable margin.

* * *

"HELL'S ANGELS" is soon to wind up its long stay at the Tremont. Next week will be its last. It goes out simply because a stage show booking at that playhouse, made before the film appeared, necessitat es that the theater return to the legitimate fold. The Hughes production has been doing a consistent l y good business; it has had a long and prosperous run in Boston. Both its high merit and its tremendous box office appeal would serve to lengthen its sojourn; but theatrical bookings are cold facts, and so next week is really the last opportunity, so we are informed to see this magnificent picture in its present uncut condition.

Howard Hughes

THE FILM OPENED on Labor Day. Tonight marks the close of its eighth week. Thus when it makes its exit it will be able to claim the honors for a record run for any talking picture in the city; and its management also avers that it had the largest box office receipts. "Hell's Angels" has marked up similar records in New York, Hollywood and Detroit. The previous "talkie champion" here was the excellent John McCormack "Song o' My Heart," which held forth at the Majestic last spring.

* * *

THE HOWARD HUGHES film is a supremely good work, and hence one that can be commended to all to see. It is surely the greatest of all pictures of the air. Into no other picture has producer put so much money and time. "Hell's Angels" was more than three years in the making; and its cost is declared to have been well up toward $4,000,000. Mr. Hughes was laughed at when his plans were announced; was laughed at more when time dragged on and he was still at work, and still was pouring his hundreds of thousands into his achievement. Having an income of somewhere around $18,000 per day, he could play the spendthrift. But there was more to it than just money. He had the courage of his convictions. He started out with an epic idea. And despite the scoffers he plowed along from month to month, until now "Hell's Angels" ranks as one of the truly great pictures.

It is worth seeing.

Waldron's Casino

At Waldron's Casino, beginning Monday, the boylesque feature will be Jane Hazelton and her "Rounders."

The vaudeville will include the Tom and Louise Trio; Smith and Green, dancers, and Musical Moores. Another feature consists of two talking pictures.

Just as One Buddy to Another

JAMES HALL AND BEN LYON

MESSRS. HALL AND LYON have both fallen for the same lassie in "Hell's Angels" at the Tremont. Here they are talking it over. They're brothers in the picture, and brother fliers as well.

The New Plays

COLONIAL—(Opening Tuesday) "Smiles," a musical comedy, starring Marilyn Miller and the Astaires—Fred and Adele. Book by William Anthony McGuire; music by Vincent Youmans; lyrics by Clifford Grey and Harold Adamson. Included in the supporting cast are Tom Howard, Paul Gregory, Eddie Foy, Jr., Harriette Lake, Georgia Caine, Clyde Hager, Harry Tighe and Kathryn Hereford. Dances by Sammy Lee; settings by Joseph Urban. Produced by Florenz Ziegfeld.

LYRIC—"Light Wines and Beer," a comedy by Aaron Hoffman. The featured players are Al Shees and Sam Bernard, 2nd. Included in the supporting cast are Louise Kirtland, Helene Salinger, Ralph Hertz, Mc-Lain Gates, Frederick Herrick and Herbert Warren. Staged by Charles Sinclair. Produced by the Stanhope Productions Co.

Winifred Christie in Recital Tomorrow

Winifred Christie, the Scotch pianist, returning to Boston after a number of years' absence, will give a recital in Symphony Hall tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Her return will be doubly interesting in that she is introducing to America the Bechstein-Moor Double Keyboard Pianoforte, the invention of Emanuel Moor, the Hungarian composer.

The Public Eye at Gettysburg

WALTER HUSTON AS "LINCOLN"

MR. HUSTON DOES a masterly job in the title role of "Abraham Lincoln," the D. W. Griffith picture now at the Majestic. The sketch is by Charles Schmidt of the Boston American staff.

"Madam Satan" Feature Picture at the Bowdoin

The Bowdoin, beginning tomorrow and continuing for four days, will screen Cecil B. DeMille's "Madam Satan." The companion picture is John McCormack's "Song o' My Heart." The Boy Friends will offer "Bigger and Better" and four selected vaudeville acts will appear. Wednesday is Cabaret night with extra features.

Plays Remaining

"To What Red Hell" at the Copley. (Second week.) Snorting melodrama in the good old-fashioned manner. Love, murder and psychology.

"Berkeley Square" at the Wilbur. (Second week.) Wistful modern American finds himself all wrapped up in the Queen Anne period. The last week.

"Abraham Lincoln" at the Majestic. (Third week.) Life story of a great President made into a film epic. A picture for every thoughtful American.

"Death Takes a Holiday" at the Plymouth. (Fourth week.) Death comes to life and plays havoc with the ladies. The last week.

* * *

"Hell's Angels" at the Tremont. (Ninth week.) Thrilling film spectacle, showing war at its worst. The last week.

CONSTANCE BENNETT TO BE STAR IN 'THE EASIEST WAY'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Oct. 25—Constance Bennett is in the happy position these days of having more offers than she can accept. She has just signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play the lead in "The Easiest Way." M. G. M. has been looking for someone to play that part for many a day, and yesterday Pathe consented to lend her to the neighboring studio.

"The Easiest Way" created a sensation some years ago as a play when Frances Starr and Joseph Kilgore appeared in what was considered the naughtiest play of the times. We have seen some plays since which were so much naughtier that today it is probably tame in comparison yet it is still good drama. Lewis Stone will probably play the part Joseph Kilgore created on the stage and if Robert Montgomery's other engagements can be so arranged he will play the disillusioned fiance. Jack Conway has been chosen to direct and if I know anything about the public it is pretty safe to say this will be another feather in the cap of M. G. M.

Louella O. Parsons

"The Up and Up" is a race track story. Carl Laemmle, Jr., who is moving slowly but wisely these days, has just purchased it for Tod Browning. He bought it while the play was still running on the New York stage. I don't know how much of a success it is as a stage play but that doesn't matter so long as it makes a good movie. And Tod Browning is the boy that can make a good movie if he is permitted to direct the picture in his own w y. The other story bought by Universal is "Apron Strings" by Dorrance Davis. This is to be on next year's program and it will also have Tod Browning as director. The women writers are doing mighty well, are they not? "The Up and Up" is by Eve K. Flint and Martha Madison.

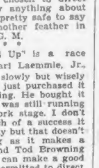
J. Harold Murray and the Fox Company have parted company. The Fox Company bought out his contract.

Let me tell you why. In New York, J. Harold Murray was a great success on the stage but who among the movie fans know him. I might say the same about Jeanette MacDonald. She has a beautiful voice but she was unknown to screen fans. I have heard that "Monte Carlo" isn't doing well in the theater as a Lubitsch picture should do and the reason is that Miss MacDonald and Jack Buchanan, two unknowns were starred. Paramount admits that Miss MacDonald will make only one more picture for them. They give as their reasons she is essentially a singer and they have no stories for her.



J. Harold Murray

Sometimes these youngsters of ours wish their parents were hod carriers or waitresses or something like that. For a famous parent often interferes with a career. Katherine De Mille is as independent as young Doug Fairbank and a dozen other children of celebrities. She walked over to the United Artists studio and got herself a job in "Reaching for the Moon." Not a starring job, mind you, but just a small part, and she has a couple of good scenes with Bebe Daniels, the feminine star of the Douglas Fairbanks picture.

According to Eddie Goulding she is doing mighty well.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: CUBBY BUSH vamping all the women at the Embassy Club at luncheon. His mother, EILEEN PERCY, introducing him socially. LEWIS STONE honeymooning with his bride, formerly HAZEL ELIZABETH WOOD. NATALIE KEATON in a smart black suit with fur jacket and fur cap, playing a round of miniature golf. BUSTER KEATON, meanwhile, playing bridge with BEN LYON and several others. MRS. PATRICK CAMPBELL, who gave a lecture at the Vine Street Theater, lunching at the Spanish patio at the Ambassador. MARY DUNCAN, a study in green, dancing in the Cocoanut Grove. MARCELINE DAY in pink chiffon at the same place. JEAN BANKHEAD, sister of TALLULAH BANKHEAD, getting her first glimpse of Hollywood night life at the Blossom Room at the Roosevelt. NORMAN KERRY well again, playing tennis. That's all today.

Helen Kane in Person at Orpheum Next Week

Helen Kane, who has more imitators than any musical star on the stage and who set the country "boop-a-dooping," will make personal appearances at Loew's Orpheum next week. Miss Kane will be surrounded by a pretentious vaudeville bill.

JACK HOLT IS PARK STAR

The double bill at the Park is headed by "The Squealer," in which Jack Holt is supported by Dorothy Revier, Davey Lee, Matt Moore and Zasu Pitts. The thrills and excitement of New York night-life are enhanced by the unusual contrasts they afford.

The second feature is "The Jazz Cinderella," tense drama, enlivened by humor and several songs. Among the leading players are Myrna Loy, Jason Robards, Nancy Welford, Dorothy Phillips and Frank McGlynn.

Kreutzberg and Georgi

Harald Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi, the famous German dancers, are to give a recital in Symphony Hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 20.

CRIME STUDY HIS HOBBY

If Edmund Lowe, featured in "Scotland Yard," now at the Modern and Beacon, were to return to Santa Clara University for post-graduate work, he might easily major in applied criminal psychology, for his intensive research into the habits of the underworld has made him an authority on the subject. He now has a dual role, the first he has done since the days of the old silent pictures.

"The two characters haven't bothered me a bit," Lowe explained while the picture was being filmed. "In fact, I am perfectly at home in either. If a choice were to be made, I really don't know which I would prefer to do."

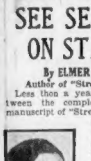
PLAIN FOLKS SEE SELVES ON STAGE

By ELMER RICE
Author of "Street Scene"

Less than a year elapsed between the completion of the manuscript of "Street Scene" and its first public performance. Since that event the play has run 600 performances on Broadway, has been produced in Paris, Berlin and other continental cities and is now running in London. One of the first cities outside of New York to see "Street Scene" will be Boston.



Elmer Rice

The play had a rather curious beginning. Some four or five years ago I wrote—largely for my own amusement and as an exercise in technique—a play without words: one episode in this play represented the awakening of a "brownstone front" apartment house in the early morning hours. One saw the house shaking off its sleep and beginning to go about the business of the day. The late home-comers, the janitor, the tradespeople, the weary doctor, the passersby, the workmen, the music pupil—all were there: the substance, in short, of the first 10 minutes of the second act of "Street Scene."

It seemed to me at the time I wrote this scene that it contained the germ of a full-length play. In the fall of 1927 I returned to America after nearly three years' residence in Europe, and so vividly did the New York scene impress itself upon me, after my long absence abroad, that almost without thinking about it I began the development of the long-dormant idea.

Technically, the play presented many difficulties. For example, there was the physical problem of manipulating so many characters—there are in the first act alone more than 75 "scenes" in the French sense of the word; more than 75 exits and entrances. The actual work of writing was begun in November, 1927—interrupted for six weeks by the production of "Cock Robin"—resumed in January, 1928.

"Street Scene" was finished about the middle of February. Except for cuts—in the course of rehearsals it was found necessary to reduce the running time about 25 minutes—the play stands as it was written. During the last weeks of my work on the play, I was fighting a devastating illness which almost removed me from this mundane scene.

Mutual Burlesque Shows

Howard — Gayety

Followers of the prize ring will find a big favorite at the Old Howard, beginning Monday, in the person of Jim Maloney, the "Pride of South Boston," who recently won a victory over Carnera. He will be assisted by boxing partners, and will demonstrate his skill with the gloves. The "Frivolities," a Mutual card that has been meeting with favor over the circuit, will give an up-to-date offering.

Betty Joyce

Evelyn Meyers is the leading feminine star of "Let's Go," which opens Monday at the Gayety. She has a wide following in Boston, and is ready to strut her 1930-1931 numbers. She has some new songs and new dances which are said to eclipse anything she had yet offered. A living curtain, made up of members of the chorus, is another one of the features of the unusual production. An adagio dance by the Jordan sisters will be another stellar attraction, according to advance reports.

Evelyn Meyers

MOTHER LOVE EVER WINS

Bertha Belmore, who gives an excellent performance of the mother of the condemned young Irishman in "To What Red Hell, at the Copley, was born in Manchester, England. She is the daughter of Anne Cousins, a well-known concert singer. Miss Belmore began her theatrical career at the age of six when she played children's parts in Old English comedies and Shakespearian plays. Starting as she did in the classics of the theater, it is small wonder that Miss Belmore considers the theater the finest education there is.

Clairbert

Clare Clairbert will first visit Boston to give a recital in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, November 9. The Belgian coloratura soprano has long been the outstanding singer of the operatic seasons in Paris, Brussels, Monte Carlo and other western European cities.

EVEN IF DUMB, BELLS RING

The "dumbbells" of vaudeville, Jules Howard and Vic Laurie, who are scoring a big hit at the Scollay this week, are comedians of the old school. Laurie, who has many friends in Boston, has played practically all the major vaudeville houses in the country, doing a "single," while Howard has made a name for himself in burlesque. Now that the boys are together, their different types of comedy present such a contrast that the result is hilarious.

RILLS FOR THE 'UNDIES'

Frances Dee, appearing with Maurice Chevalier in "Playboy of Paris," at the Metropolitan, believes that women are displaying interest once more in the ruffles of the bygone peignoir. For her role in "Playboy of Paris," Miss Dee forgoes pajamas entirely and dons filmsy robes of chiffon and lace for all her boudoir scenes.

"There is something so much more intimate and entrancing about fluffy, lacy things than the cold appearance of pajamas," says Miss Dee, who, by the way, is Paramount's newest "find."

MAINE YOUTH TAKES RISE

J. Harold Murray, who is cast in the leading role of "Women Everywhere," the all-talking romance of French Morocco and the Foreign Legion, now at the Keith-Albee, is one of the many stage and screen celebrities who began life with only his wits to help him. He is a Maine boy whose start was indeed a humble one, and his rise to the eminent position in filmdom which he occupies today is due soley to his ambition, his determination and his natural talent for music.

Born in South Berwick, Me., Murray lost his father when but one year old, and after graduating from grade school he was compelled to seek work and contribute to his mother's support.

STAR SINGS IN TWO TONGUES

Singing songs in two languages has its difficulties, according to Ramon Novarro. Novarro is singing the songs he originally sang in English, but is now singing them in Spanish, in his first Spanish talking film at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

"The trouble is," he explained, "that lyrics written in English are matched to a different type of thought, hence one has to work them around to match another nation's psychology."

Nova ro explains that a Spanish lyric has to be more attuned to a psychology of romance, and an English lyric more direct in expression.

IS ANYTHING BUT MULISH

"In 'Those Three French Girls,' Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's French farce comedy, which is at Loew's Orpheum next week, "Fatima," a nautch-dancing donkey will perform in the barn scene, with Cliff Edwards and his trusty uke supplying musical accompaniment for the mulish gyrations.

Edwards discovered "Fatima" in the corral of a riding academy and rushed to Director Harry Beaumont with the tidings. No explanation is forthcoming from either Edwards or the donkey's owner of its terpsichorean reaction to nautch music.

What Was This Royal Woman's Amazing Secret?

MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS, the most tragic and fascinating figure in British history—her life more dramatic than any play or novel. Her misfortunes, her intrigues, her romances and the final tragedy of her beheading have never ceased to occupy historians.

Of all the dramatic episodes of her life, the murder of her second husband, Henry Stuart, Lord Darnley, is the most mysterious. What was the real cause and manner of Darnley's death? Did Queen Mary authorize it? Historians are greatly interested in new and startling facts unearthed by one of the most noted eugenists of England. Remarkable events that led to her beheading, plots and counterplots of unscrupulous nobles struggling for control of the kingdom. Every student of history should read the astonishing facts—next Sunday in The American Weekly.

What About Eternal Punishment for Sinners?

"Everlasting Life," "Eternal Punishment"—during many centuries preachers have built up a complicated system of burning and torture to be endured by the majority of the earth's inhabitants. Preachers employed every science—medicine, chemistry, astronomy—to fill out the details of existence in Hades—a subject that is one of the most astonishing in the history of religion. And now some of the most famous ministers here and abroad are preaching an entirely different gospel. Read about it next Sunday in The American Weekly.

What Do You Know About Mosquitoes?

Do you know what the mosquito eats when there's nobody to bite? We think mosquitoes are a summer pest—yet the biggest mosquitoes are to be found in the Arctic. Everybody knows that they "breed in water"—yet there are plenty of them in the world's driest deserts. Science has focussed its ingenuity upon the study of these insects—they have been tamed, fed and studied while eating, singing, love-making and breeding. The results obtained by scientists are remarkable and they make interesting reading—next Sunday in The American Weekly.

Is Marriage a Lottery?

Of course there are thousands of happily married couples. But there are some recent and startling instances here and there around the country that demonstrate the truth of the old proverb, "Marriage is a Lottery." You be the judge, after reading the details of queer impulses and strange antics of matrimonial partners in mansion and cottage. You'll discover something new in cave-man tactics: Next Sunday in The American Weekly.

"GANGSTER GIRL"

by Jack Lait

A Sequel to "Put On the Spot"; Thrilling Gangster Expose

"Silk" Has New Racket For Polack Annie

"NOW THEY'LL pay and they'll like it," said "Silk" Freeman. "I've got them in my mitt before they wake up."

What Has Happened So Far

Polack Annie, red-haired beauty of the Chicago underworld, after killing two gang leaders to avenge the slaying of her sweetheart, comes to New York and appeals for protection to Silk Freeman, a big shot racketeer. He provides an expensive hotel suite for her and tells her he has a racket for her which promises big returns.

Now Go On with the Story.

CHAPTER 2

"NOW," SAID SILK FREEMAN, as he sat at the edge of Polack Annie's bed in his Hotel Napoleon, "we'll get down to cases. I've got a new racket all lined up for you. You're going to organize the beauty shops."

Annie tried to take it seriously. Then she smiled.

"Beauty shops?" she gurgled. "I come from Chicago."

"From Chicago is correct. Beauty shops is what you'll organize. I know what's whosis. You know how many beauty shops there are in New York? More than 2000 in the black—making money. And not kicking in a nickel. It's a sin."

"Well? Did you help 'em get prosperous?"

"No. But I'll show you—and them—how I can help them make 25 per cent more, pay their girls 15 per cent more, and give me 10 per cent of their business and 10 per cent of what the girls rake off."

"I've heard of shakedowns, but I never knew they were in the name o' charity."

Miniature Golf

"Oh, we run those, too. Just now I'm educating the owners of the miniature golf courses—$50 a week for patrol service so their links won't be destroyed by vandals during the late night hours. We had to blow up one of 'em, and the rest were waiting on the doorstep next day. But this is strictly legit. That is, if they come in—and they will. We may have to strong-arm a few who won't listen to reason and can't understand mathematics, but everything in life can't be just fun. Now, listen:

"You start with the girls. There are about 6000 hairdressers employed in the town. They pull down 35 per cent of their take. We start the Hairdressers' Union. We call a meeting. Most of 'em will come—and come in. If some don't, well they won't have good health. After the first lesson, we'll have a 100 per cent union. Now we lay down the law. The girls must have 50 per cent instead of 35.

"The madames will squawk. They can't afford it. Oh, can't they? Well, they must raise the price of a permanent from $8 to $12—or whatever is customary, a 50 per cent up. 'Ah,' says the madame, but I can't. My competitors will get they?' you ask. 'We'll see your competitors. They'll raise 50 per cent or else.' 'Or else what?' 'Or else they won't be competitors long.' Do I make myself clear?

"Now, then—where do we come in?

"The girls, who now make 50 per cent of $12 instead of 35 per cent of $8, pay 10 per cent of their gross to the union for dues—and a defense fund and for educational purposes.

How It Works

"The madames, who now have 50 per cent of $12 a head instead of 65 per cent of $8 a head, contribute 10 per cent of their gross to our new organization, the Beauty Shop Proprietors' Protective Association. That's us.

"We protect our girls by making it hard for new ones to get in the trade. We protect our proprietors by making it harder for outsiders to open up new shops. If a landlord raises the rent on one of our wards, we send a couple of the boys to see him. And he'll be seen plenty.

"You laughed when I said organize the beauty shops, huh? Well, as near as I can figure this gag, it'll be worth three-quarters of a million a year. And everybody in it will be better off. And the sap dames who get their hair wheeyed up pay the bad news. That's business. That's the way the legit combines operate. It's called "lessening sales resistance" or "syndicate for furthering mutual benefits of trade," or "organizing for the betterment of the industry."

"Union labor in this country invented and fathered the system. Carpenters used to get $35 a week. Now they get

3 Jailed in Cambridge Raid

To the Rescue

DANIEL LONG, 24-year-old mail carrier, saved the life of John Allen by leaping from Harvard bridge last night. Both later were taken to City Hospital.

1000 TICKETS SEIZED BY VICE SQUAD

Lottery Charges Are Filed Against Suspects Seized in Fruit Store

Three men were arrested and more than a thousand pool tickets seized today in a raid by the vice and liquor squad of the Cambridge police department in a fruit store on Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge.

The men, Elmo Norrell of Cutler ave., Somerville; Fred Tarter, of Hudson st., Boston, and Rudolph Kelsey, of Cogswell ave., Cambridge, were taken to the Brattle sq. station, where they were booked for setting up and promoting a lottery.

The raiding squad, headed by Patrolman Joseph C. Breen, entered the front door of the store, and found the three men. An investigation disclosed the tickets hidden under a counter.

The three men surrendered without a struggle.

BRIDGE PLUNGE FOILS SUICIDE

While hundreds of persons milled about excitedly and as fire apparatus was speeding to the scene, a young mail carrier leaped from the Harvard bridge last night and blocked the alleged suicide attempt of a Somerville man in the Charles river basin.

The hero was Daniel Long, 24, assigned to the Burlington ave. postal station. The rescued man was John Allen, 35, of Kensington ave., Somerville, who, police say, was despondent over domestic affairs.

Long was on his way to his home at 19 Henry st., Everett, at the time.

Diamond Larceny Jails Man for Year

George J. Kaufman of St. Paul st., Brookline, was found guilty of larceny of a $1500 diamond and sentenced to one year in the House of Correction by Judge Thomas H. Dowd in municipal court today. Testimony revealed Kaufman borrowed the stone from Julius Prince, Washington st. diamond broker, over a year ago, and attempts to regain it were futile. Kaufman appealed and was held in $1000.

Shoe Company to Keep Wage Level Up

The Emerson Shoe Manufacturing Co. of Rockland announced today that the wages of all its employes would be maintained at the present high level.

"We want to go on record as saying we have no idea of cutting the wages of our shoemakers and surely hope that conditions throughout the country will warrant more work and more pay," said H. E. Litchfield, general superintendent.

East Boston Man Robbed in Store

Just as he was closing his restaurant at 140 Maverick st., East Boston, last night, three young and well-dressed men held up Carmen Bremia at the point of a revolver and took his day's receipts of $250 a valuable stick pin and a gold watch.

The men, who were apparently about 20, dashed from the restaurant as soon as they got the money and valuables and disappeared in an automobile, the number of which was not obtained.

Lost Bride Returns, Police Search Ends

A police hunt for Mrs. Florence L. Church, 18-year-old bride, reported missing by her husband, Merrill Church, of Portland, Me., salesman, was called off today when she returned to a Parkvale ave., Allston, apartment where she had been visiting. Mrs. Church told her husband she was taken sick while visiting friends.

FROM $3 TO $300 is the approximate jump in price to antique art collectors of Lowestoft china after it has been put through an artificial ageing process of sandpapering and painting to make it represent one of the Lowestoft pieces of the Van Rensselaer heirlooms. The pieces shown in this picture, owned by a Beacon Hill antique dealer, are used here to show the process used by swindlers in ageing the china. The piece at the right is genuine. Lowestoft antique china is valued at $300.

Ageing Process Rockets Price

SUSPECT HELD IN EXTORTION

Miss Helen S. Davis, 58, of Shaw st., West Newton, was revealed today when he fell from a third story window. His son, John, found the body in an alley between two houses and notified Dr. Paul Donovan and Revere police. Death was caused by a broken neck and internal injuries.

Patrolman Shoots Self Inspecting Gun

Patrolman Gerard J. Lynch of Roxbury Crossing division, accidentally shot himself in the left hand today while examining a .22 caliber revolver, pistol, outside police Station 10. He was treated at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and returned to duty.

Insurance Man Sees Unerring Signs of Prosperity

Prosperity is on the way, according to an official in the legal department of one of Boston's leading insurance companies. This man says that applications for loans on policies and lapses are one of the best barometers of the times.

He points out that in the last month there has been a vast falling off in both of these.

Clerk Vanishes on Errand to Bank

Police are searching for Emmanuel Wolffers, 29, of Nasing ct., Roxbury, a clerk in a Dorchester hard ware store, who has not been seen since Thursday night when his employer sent him to the bank with a portion of the day's receipts. His employer's car is also missing.

David S. Smith, proprietor of the store, 160 Washington st., Dorchester, told police that he sent Wolffers to the bank in his car with $115 in cash and checks.

Holy Souls Novena Opened at St. James

The novena for the Holy Souls began in St. James Church, Harrison ave., today and will continue until Nov. 3, the Feast of All Souls. Exercises will be held at 12:30 and 3:30 p. m. There will be brief sermons at each of these exercises by Rev. Father Alexis, of the Passionist Order. Masses each morning at 7 and 8 o'clock.

Labor to Lead Fight on Unemployment

A plea for labor organizations to unite in order to combat the present employment dilemma throughout Massachusetts was made by J. Arthur Moriarty, president of the Boston Central Labor Union, this morning at the 22d semi-annual convention of the Massachusetts State Building Trades Council at the Bradford hotel.

J. Frank Wellington, 81, retired coal merchant, died today at his home, 18 Summit ave., Somerville. The funeral will be held Tuesday with services in First Universalist church, Somerville, at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery, Everett.

EX-SENATOR REFUSED TO BUY FAKE 'MASTER'

Dealers Aid Foley Inquiry Into Operations of Ring That Reaped Millions

Former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey rejected the bogus Gilbert Stuart painting of George Washington before Edwin S. Webster of Stone & Webster, a trustee of Boston Museum of Fine Arts, bought it for $32,000.

Frelinghuysen, who is a millionaire, spurned the counterfeit canvas on the advice of a New York expert. It was offered to him for $30,000, and, soon after, was knocked down to the Boston man for $2000 more than was demanded of the New Jersey statesman.

This information was furnished to Dist. Atty. William J. Foley during the art racketeer investigation by Frank W. Bayley who conducts an art gallery at 103 Newbury st. and lives at 21 Halifax st., Jamaica Plain.

Bayley was interviewed yesterday by Asst. Dist. Atty Fred T. Doyle. He admitted selling the painting to Webster for $32,000, but said he refunded the money on learning it was a copy that had been exhibited at Metropolitan Museum in New York.

Webster still has the spurious canvas, but Bayley promised to destroy it as soon as Suffolk county authorities permit it. Bayley offered to assist the district attorney in every way possible in running down the persons responsible for flooding the art world with spurious paintings, china and antiques.

CAME FROM TEXAS

Bayley said the painting was shipped to New York for inspection by Frelinghuysen's agent. He said the painting came from Texas.

The painting which Wilbur Cooke, under indictment here with two women confederates, is alleged to have tried to sell through an agent to Henry L. Shattuck, treasurer of Harvard College, was that of an early governor of Massachusetts. The price sought was $30,000, but Shattuck didn't bite.

Evidence bears out the belief that the art racketeers operated on a gigantic scale. It is said that scores of prominent persons have been fleeced, but prefer to stand their loss in silence to avoid publicity.

AID INVESTIGATION

Henry W. Flogel of Fifth ave., New York, admits his firm produced some of the chinaware which he later learned has been used to defraud collectors.

"Last winter I received an order from a woman to decorate some plain old Lowestoft with antique patterns," said Flogel. "I did so, not knowing it was to be used to defraud anybody."

It was learned today that Flogel and Joseph Nyburg, also of Fifth ave., who is said to have done him this order, are helping the government investigators in their proceedings against Mrs. Clementine Briggs Doran and Wilbur Cooke. Mrs. Doran is under $20,000 bail on conspiracy and larceny charges. Cook is being sought.

William M. Hekking, director of an art museum in Buffalo, was another witness interviewed yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Foley and Asst. Dist.-Atty. Doyle. Hekking said he acted as agent in the sale of two paintings to Seymour H. Knox, wealthresident of Buffalo, and director of the Albright Art Gallery by Mr. Knox paid between $50,000 and $60,000 for two copies.

Hekking also told of a painting sold to Walstein Findlay of Kansas City, which proved to be a worthless copy after Findlay paid $5000 in cash and gave notes for $15,000.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $10 for the next best, $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

Big Green Team's Man Power May Humble Harvard

Bulldog vs. Mule Unbeaten Elevens In Three Games

Dartmouth Favorite, But Sun May Set in Crimson

"The Harvard throng is marching,
Thund'rous are the voices;
A hundred footsteps
Sound in measured tread.
All Harvard's sons are gath'ring
On Harvard's day of triumph;
The Crimson banners flourish
Above fair Harvard's gates.

They tell in song and story;
Harvard's own hold sway;
The Crimson team advances,
Fights to win the fray.
A blazing Crimson sunset
Floods the closing day;
A shout! A roar! A touchdown!
Harvard wins today!"

"Harvard's Own."

"Harvard wins today." Perhaps, and then—perhaps not. For it's Dartmouth, the Big Green Team of Dartmouth, wealthier apparently in man-power than any team in the East, which is throwing out its battlefront there on Soldiers Field this moist autumn afternoon. Man-power can wreck any system, be it Haughton or Hoewen, or Warner, Meehan or Rockne. Football strategy is akin to military. "God is on the side of the heaviest artillery," said Napoleon. Football victory is on the side of the team boasting the greatest man-power. That big squad of young giants Jack Cannell led down from the blue hills of New Hampshire would make any coach pop-eyed, any expert rave, any wager layer lengthen the odds.

Harvard showed strength in last Saturday's contest with a great Army team. It was the breaks of the game more than anything else which gave the Army a 6-to-0 victory. With Mays and Devens back in the lineup to take a little of the backfield burden off Jack Crickard's shoulders the Crimson will be stronger, today. This is a day for mud horses and anything can happen.

George Underwood.

It is hard to figure how a stronger Harvard team, profiting by the mistakes in generalship that greatly handicapped Harvard against the Army, will bend the knee against any eleven. Put the Dartmouth man-power—ah, the Dartmouth man-power! How can you beat an eleven which has two or three young bulls of Bashan for any position on the eleven? What's the use of blowing a breach in the walls only to have it quickly plugged up by something stronger, more impregnable? What strategy, what system can you employ against a Juggernaut that rolls down the field, crushing everything in its way?

A GREEN JUGGERNAUT

On paper, that's what the Big Green Team that takes the field against Harvard, this afternoon, looks like—a Juggernaut. That's what the Big Green Team looks like on paper, sizing it up against the weak opposition it so far has encountered this season. Ottumea a team looks entirely different on the field than it does on paper. We haven't had the opportunity to see Dartmouth play this season. All we can go by are the scores the Big Green Team has rolled up and the "dope" furnished by volunteer experts who have seen the Big Green Team of 1930 in action. They tell us Dartmouth without Al Marsters is even stronger than last season. If that is true how can the Indians of the North be beaten?

Maybe Harvard will show us how this afternoon. A hundred thousand Harvard men are hoping so, anyway. Maybe Dartmouth's vaunted strength will not show on the field what it does on paper and this will be Harvard's night to howl. Big Green Team, or not, perhaps the sun will set in a blaze of Crimson, as does the Harvard song. Maybe after all those Indians of the North will go back to Hanover as baldheaded as billiard balls and the scalpers will be scalped. Anything can happen in football.

Whatever happens the horde that storms the Stadium today will see one of the greatest football games of the season. Save the Harvard-Yale classic the Harvard-Dartmouth conflict has become New England's blue ribbon sporting event. Certainly it occupies the center of the football stage today.

OTHER GAMES

The only game having half as great a hold on public attention here in New England this afternoon is the annual Yale-Army clash down in New Haven.

Next to Harvard-Yale New Haven considers the annual clash between the Bulldog and the Mule as football's piece de resistance. New Haven today is getting the same frills Boston had a week ago. New Haven flappers are just as daffy over the parade of the gray-coated Cadets uptown and into the Commons out to the field and back to town again, as Boston belles last Saturday were over the same Cadet show here in the Hub.

Unless all the signs along the trail are read wrongly, Army is going to give Yale just as tough a session as the Cadets gave Harvard. The Bulldog "found" itself against Brown and is playing great football. But Army didn't have to uncover its full hand against Harvard. The Cadets still have a few tricks up their sleeves and this is Army's "Big" game.

Unless Yale's line has been immeasurably strengthened Army should win this afternoon. That's the way we look at it, but whether we're right or wrong remains to be seen.

Casting ones eyes over the map we find six unbeaten teams meeting in three games: Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh, Fordham vs. N. Y. U. and Alabama vs. Vanderbilt.

BOSTON BOYS

If the weather in New York is suitable the Maroon-Violet duel is expected to attract a throng of 75,000. Locally, the game holds interest for several Greater Boston boys and former classmates and teammates will be pitted against each other. Mike Miskinis and Oscar Holmberg of Fordham both live just around the corner from Sanford Roland, Violet back, in Brockton. Capt. Tony Siano and Walter Tracey, Fordham's great booter, come from Waltham, as do Emile Concannon, Hugh Greenblatt and Pat Ryan of N. Y. U.

It is down in Pittsburgh we would prefer to be if we were not occupying a ringside seat in the Harvard Stadium or the Yale Bowl for the Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh clash may make football history.

Pitt's off-tackle smash may upset Notre Dame, but it will not unless Jock Sutherland has developed a super-line. Rockne's line punched holes through Tech's reputedly impregnable front with impugnity a week ago. Pat Daugherty, Pitt's great center, will carry the biggest burden. It is up to him to split Notre Dame's center trio, or Baker, Wallinchis, Heller and Hood never will be able to get under way.

Pitt plays Warner football. But the Rockne coached South Benders seem equipped to meet any system. The lines will decide the issue. And here we are at the bottom of the column and —on our way to Soldiers Field.

STARS ON N. E. GRID STAGES TODAY

ED SUTTON

STAN YUDICKEY

ED TOOTHAKER

MADE THE WELKIN RING. Here is a group of football players, well known to football fanatics, who scintillated on two mud-soaked gridirons today before wet, but enthusiastic, audiences. On the upper left are three warhooping Indians from Dartmouth, Ed Sutton, Stan Yudickey and Ed Toothaker, who made trouble for John Harvard on the soggy Stadium sod. Down below are the two backs, who were watched closely by a near-capacity throng at the Bowl in New Haven, Cy Letzelter of Army and Albie Booth of Yale. Harvard is lined up above just before they went to war with Dartmouth. On the line, left to right, are Moushegian, Ogden, Kales, Trainer, Ticknor, Myerson and Harding, while in the backfield are Devens, White, Mays, Crickard and Wood. Quite an assortment of grid stars.

B.U. FROSH LOSE TO 'Y' ELEVEN

Springfield College freshmen today defeated the Boston U. yearlings, 14 to 0, in a game at William E. Nickerson field, Weston. The was even until the final period, when Shields, Springfield right halfback, took the ball on a double reverse play and ran 35 yards for a touchdown.

A few minutes later, Smith, Springfield fullback, went over for a touchdown from the B. U. 34 14-yard line. Smith made both points after touchdown by rushing.

In the final play of the game Taylor, Springfield left half, broke loose at midfield and ran to the B. U. five-yard stripe, where he slipped in the mud and failed to score.

Four Big Games to Be Broadcast

New York, Oct. 25 (INS)—Four football games will be broadcast over nation-wide hookups today. The contests are Notre Dame-Pittsburgh, Yale-Army, Princeton-Navy and Dartmouth-Harvard.

Tonight the game between Washington and Jefferson and Lafayette, to be played indoors at Atlantic City, will be broadcast over WABC and its chain.

Grid Game Planned to Aid Unemployed

Detroit, Oct. 25 (AP)—Mayor Frank Murphy is trying to arrange a post season football game between Michigan and the University of Detroit, receipts to go to the Detroit unemployment fund. It is estimated the probable receipts at $100,000.

Hargreaves and Bengough Released

New York, Oct. 25 (INS)—Ben Bengough, catcher, has been released to the Milwaukee club, the New York Yankees announced today.

"Bubbles" Hargreaves, also a catcher, who came up to the Yanks from St. Paul, was given his unconditional release.

Suburban League Games Off; Other Schools Play

By BILL CONNELL.

Rain and the poor condition of the playing fields today caused the postponement until Monday afternoon of two of the most important schoolboy football games of the day, Suburban League conflicts with Somerville playing at Newton and Brookline battling at Rindge Tech.

The Groton school-Milton academy fray also was put over until Monday. Memorial's tilt with Boston English at the Fens stadium was postponed indefinitely.

Malden faced a heavy Manchester, N. H., eleven on the sloppy surfaces of the Pearl st. stadium at Malden. With the playing surface in such poor condition the result was a toss-up, although Manchester had been a pre-game favorite.

A win over Manchester would boost the hopes of Malden fans for a winning team for the balance of the year, but it is doubtful if the Malden high can stand off the powerful New Hampshire team.

Hard games every week have taken their toll of the Malden squad which would need to be at full strength for every clash of its tought slate to maintain a good average this fall.

Bill Healey's Wakefield high eleven is in for a stiff struggle with Winchester, an unbeaten team, in the Mystic Valley League encounters. Arlington is the favorite to conquer Woburn in the other league game of the day.

Lynn English to Entertain Waltham

Waltham high goes to Lynn for a skirmish with Tom Whelan's English eleven. The Watch City boys are not, on paper, any match for English but may give the Shoe City eleven some trouble.

Dave Dillon sends his Cathedral high team against St. Mary's of Brookline at the Fens Stadium this afternoon, in a Catholic high school league fray.

Cathedral high already has won two games, and dropped one. Capt. John Fortunato, triple threat halfback; Downey, Regan and Horne are the best of the Cathedral backs. Dyer, center; Roden and Kenney, guard and tackle, respectively; Trayers, Higgins and Tague, ends, stand out in the line. St. Mary's must play fine football to hold Cathedral even.

The other Catholic High School League game of the day brings together Mason high of Roxbury and Immaculate Conception high of Revere, at Revere.

One of the biggest school games of the week is played this afternoon at Dilboy Field, Somerville, when St. John's Prep of Danvers faces Samuel Johnson Academy of Stratford, Ct.

St. John's, coached by Tom McNamara, is one of the outstanding elevens of the season and is a slight favorite to win over the Nutmeg State gridsters.

Sidelights of Stadium Game

Harvard Stadium, Oct. 25—The Indians couldn't have brought worse weather down from the North Country with them. Not since 1923, when Ducky Pond, most appropriately named, breast-stroked his way to two touchdowns in a sea of mud and water to give Yale a win over Harvard, has the Stadium experienced any such weather as obtains this afternoon.

A terrific rain driven by a hurricane wind is freezing and drowning the spectators and the players are performing on a field knee deep in muck and water.

All bets predictions on the game mean nothing today. It is swimming and not football ability that counts in this game and the best swimmers will win.

Every seat for the game has been sold at $4 a copy, but every seat is not occupied. There are several thousand present though, and that is several thousand more than should be on hand. Why anybody who doesn't have to, attends a game on a day like this, is beyond us.

Here is real football over emphasis. Games should not be played on days like this.

Even the Big Green warriors, accustomed to playing bare legged donned stockings until the pastime started.

This is the first time in nine post-war Dartmouth-Harvard games that rain has fallen, so perhaps it was due.

Thanks to Frank Ryan, we have a roof over the press box. This is the first time the worth of it has been realized as it is the first rainy day since it was erected early last fall.

Next to the press seats the covered colonnade seats, usually the worst in the place, are the best today.

The Big Green band appeared dressed like Gloucester fishermen with gray rubber capes over their green sweaters and duck pants.

Capt. Ben Ticknor tried end-over-end passes in practice so as to be able to better handle the ball in the game.

Charlie Devens appeared after two weeks absence with his knees heavily bandaged.

Frank Ryan, also trying to make things as pleasant as possible for everybody, took the photographers off the open roof and brought them inside the covered press coop.

There was plenty of color at the game, everybody sporting gaily hued wet weather apparel.

Harvard got the first break, as their stands are on the leeward side of the field.

With a cold northwest wind blowing in their faces, the Big Green rooters must have been reminded of Hanover.

The Harvard band ducked the rain as long as possible, coming in at 1:30. They had no slickers, so wore topcoats.

The players' benches were covered with white oilcloth.

White, red, yellow, blue, orange, it looked like a rainbow everywhere except where everybody wanted to see one—in the sky.

Garden Ready for Big Horse Show

Visitors to the Boston Garden were treated to an unusual sight when they found the floor, up to midnight Thursday used for boxing bouts, had been dirt-covered and converted into a show ring for horses.

On Tuesday the Boston Horse show opens at the Garden with a greater display, both as regards quality and quantity, than that offered last year.

No pains have been spared to make this show the best ever held in this vicinity. From all parts of the country, even as far West as San Francisco, entries have been received.

Every day, be it afternoon or evening, is to have features that will appeal to lovers of the horse, with headliners booked for appearance at all of the sessions.

Rawson Outpointed at Lewiston, Me.

Lewiston, Me., Oct. 25—Ted Kid Drew of Biddeford, lightweight champion, in a setup on Tommy Rawson, Jr., of Boston, in a slow six-rounder here.

Al Parent of Lewiston had he best of Georgie Sawyer in four.

K. O. Belanger defeated Tiger Nelson, in four, and Young Chalifoux boxed a draw with K. O. Blouin.

LOCAL CLUB OPENS HERE NOV. 11

The Boston Bruins, who open their hockey season at the Boston Garden on Armistice Day, November 11, meeting the New York Americans, will play 23 games at the Depot rink and 21 on alien ice.

The Bruin stars have begun to trek in from their hibernations, chiefly in Western Canada, and Manager Art Ross will have them working out the end of this month.

The team has practically the same lineup with the addition of some new men who are expected to brush up the few weak spots that were noticeable a season back

All N. H. L. Teams Swing Into Action Shortly

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—The National Hockey League season for 1930-31 will get under way in a little more than two weeks, according to the official schedule released today. The opening games will take place Nov. 11, with the Montreal Maroons playing at Ottawa, the New York Americans at Boston and the New York Rangers giving Philadelphia its first taste of big league hockey.

Two days later, Toronto and Detroit swing into action with the Americans and Rangers as their opponents Montreal's first game is Nov. 15 with Ottawa playing the Canadians while the Chicago and New York openings are the next night. Sunday, when the Maroons play the Americans and the Rangers meet Chicago's Blackhawks. The Maroons and Rangers have their first home games on Nov. 16, a week after the opening.

As in previous seasons, each team is scheduled for 44 games, half at home. The Ottawa Senators already have made a few changes, transferring three games to other cities they will play at Boston Nov. 27, at New York against the Rangers March 17 and at Detroit Feb. 5.

Cormier Out Ahead in Worcester Go

Worcester, Oct. 25—Vernon Cormier, Worcester, won decisively over Panama Roy Brooks of New Bedford, claimant of the New England featherweight title, in the feature bout here, in other bouts Rene Peloquin, Danielson, defeated Pat James of Providence; Aldo Nocbi, Worcester, knocked out Lefty Nunes, New Bedford, in the third and Hershey Bar, New Bedford, defeated Leo Ledoux of Spencer.

Harvard Soccer Team Wins Out, 3-1

Harvard spoiled Dartmouth's undefeated soccer record and kept their own unblemished in kicking three goals to the Green's single score at the business school field. A rain-soaked and muddy field made playing conditions for the four full periods the most disagreeable in several seasons at Harvard.

'SONNY' BOUT FOR WINNER

Spectacular wrestlers are not always the toughest wrestlers in the game, while real tough wrestlers are sometimes devoid of color.

This holds true as regarding Marin Plestina who meets Jac Sherry in the final bout of Paul Bowser's wrestling show at the Boston Arena Thursday night.

Plestina has never been a colorful wrestler, but he has ceased many wrestlers to get lumbago, colds, sprains and what nots or in other words cold feet.

He meets a tough foe in Sherry, and the fact that the men are in line for a chance to meet Gus Sonnenberg, the champion, should add a lot of vim to their work.

Rosario Impellettere, the giant Italian grappler, will have his work cut out for him in the semifinal when he meets John Crandovich, the giant Russian.

George Mack, Jugo-Slav wrestler and rough house artist of Chicago, will meet Tony Rocco, the clever New York Italian, in another bout.

Count George Zarrynoff has just returned from a trip to Europe and will appear in still another bout on the card with an opponent yet to be selected.

the Dartmouth 18-yard line. Dartmouth punted, but the play was called back and Dartmouth penalized five yards. Morton punted the ball, going over Mayo' head, and the Harvard man was downed on Harvard's 25-yard line. Mayo made two yards through Crehan. A plunge at the line failed and Wood kicked, the ball being downed on Dartmouth's 44-yard line.

Dartmouth tried the center of the Harvard line with no success and then Morton kicked outside on Harvard's 25-yard line. Downs cut through tackle for four yards. Two rushes by Downs left Harvard inches from a first down. Wood carried the ball going outside on Dart mouth's 48. Sutton netted three yards through center. Tickner and Wolff for no gain. Morton punted out of bounds on Harvard's 30-yard line.

Harvard was penalized 5 yards back to its 13-yard line for offside. Downs hit center for 5 yards. White plunged to Harvard's 29-yard line. Wood punted outside on Harvard's 36-yard line. Morton hit the center of the line for 3 yards. Kales held Sutton on the line of scrimmage. Morton fumbled, but recovered on Harvard's 34-yard line. Morton punted and the ball went outside at foot from the Harvard goal line. Wood immediately kicked and the ball was downed by Harding on Harvard's 27-yard line. Morton ripped through tackle for four yards.

Dartmouth penalized 5 yards for offside. On a double pass, Morton to Donner, Dartmouth made a first down on Harvard's 15-yard line. Moushegian replaced Olden for Harvard. Barber of Dartmouth hurt himself. On a criss-cross Wolff brought the ball to Har vard's two-yard line. A pass Morton to Wolff, was short of a first down on Harvard's six yard line. Morton made a first down on Harvards 4 yard line. Sutton crashed to a foot of the goal line. Dartmouth scored a touchdown. Wood diving over the line.

Tickner kicked off to Morton, who was downed by Wood to Dartmouth's 32-yard line. Harvard took time out. Standing on his own 25-yard line, Morton kicked over the Harvard goal line the ball was called back, both sides offside. Wolff failed to gain around right end. Dartmouth penalized 5 yards for delaying the game. Tickner intercepted Morton's pass on the 25-yard line. White and Mayo made nine yards in two tries. Wood kicked to Dartmouth's 33-yard line. Sutton failed to gain through Tickner. Morton forced outside by Tickner on an end run to midfield. Dartmouth penalized 5 yards for offside.

Two plunges failed on Dartmouth's 43-yard line Morton intended to Wood who was forced outside on Harvard's 33-yard line. Mayo made 5 yards around Dartmouth's right end to Harvard's 28-yard line. Dartmouth penalized 5 yards for offside. Trafford substituted for Kales for Harvard. Dartmouth penalized 15 yards for illegal use of hands to Dartmouth's 45-yard line. Mayo made four yards through Crehan White was forced outside on Dartmouth's 40-yard line. Wood punted the ball was downed on Dartmouth's own 10-yard line. Ball called back and Dartmouth penalized another 15 yards to their 25-yard line. A Harvard lateral, Wood to Mayo, was smothered by Donner on Dartmouth's 38-yard line. Mayo made two attempts through center.

A Harvard pass, Wood to Mayo, was successful, but the Harvard back was run outside on Dartmouth's 28-yard line. Schreyer replaced White for Harvard. A forward, Wood to Mayo, was grounded and it was Dartmouth's ball on their own 20-yard line on two rushes Morton gained 8 yards. Dartmouth's kick was blocked and recovered by Harvard on Dartmouth's 47 yard line. A long pass was caught outside by Wood on the Dartmouth 15-yard line, the ball being brought back.

Mayo was thrown outside Dartmouth's 40-yard line. Dartmouth was penalized 15 yards for illegal use of hands. Harvard's ball on Dartmouth's 24-yard line. Wood fumbled but recovered for a 2-yard loss. Crickard replaced Mayo for Harvard. On the first play Crickard circled right end, Sutton cutting through tackle. McCall replaced Morton for Dartmouth. McCall was thrown for 5-yard loss.

Harvard Gets Two Points on Safety

Helen Hicks Makes New Coast Record

Del Monte, Cal., Oct. 25—Helen Hicks, Long Island, N. Y., shot a 77 at Cypress Point to establish a new course record for women and with low gross honors in the last of the three-day series of invitation tournaments.

She was one over par with a 36 on the first nine and home in 39. Her birdie two on the third hole provided one of the few spots of a brilliant day's play.

After adding a plus one handicap to her 77 Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., captured low net honors for the 18 holes with 79 Edith Quier of Pennsylvania won second low net with 82—1—81.

Bridgton Eleven Beats Tufts Frosh

In a pouring rain that made the field a sea of mud the Bridgton Academy football team defeated the Tufts freshmen at the Tufts Oval by a score of 13-7. Bowdoin former Medford player and Powers scored for Bridgton and Flint made Tufts' score on a beautiful 75-yard run which was the feature play of the game. The Jumbo yearling score was the first time that the strong Bridgton team has been scored on this season.

Palmer Stadium Princeton N. J. Oct. 25 (AP)—With two defeats each behind them, Princeton and Navy met here in their annual football game today.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover reached the stadium, accompanied by her host, Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton, before either team put in an appearance. The weather was cold, with a stiff cross-wind sweeping the field.

The Navy was supported by the midshipmen from Annapolis in a body, the white-capped, black-coated sailors getting a great hand from the crowd, estimated at 40,000.

Navy scored early in the first period. After receiving the initial kick-off Princeton kicked on first down but a poor punt netted 10 yards and Navy took the ball on Princeton's 30 yard line The ball was rushed to the 20 yard line and Techirgi then ran to Princeton's eight yard line.

Kirn was over to the touchdown in three vicious smashes through the line Bowstrom missed the try for extra point and the score was Navy 6; Princeton 0.

Navy took Princeton's kick-off after the touchdown and went from its own 18-yard line to another touchdown. Princeton drew a penalty permitting the Middies to keep the ball after a short kick deep in its own territory. A 22-yard forward pass, Hagberg to Byng and a series of rushes brought the country, although Kirn fumbled over the goal line and Steffanides had to fall on the ball over his goal line for the touchdown. A forward pass for the extra point failed

The first period ended soon thereafter with the score Navy 12, Princeton 0.

SECOND PERIOD.

Navy started another demonstration in the second period, but a penalty for holding nullified a forward pass, which had placed the ball on Princeton's 24-yard line. Knell then intercepted a forward pass and Princeton took the ball. Navy drove to Princeton's 11-yard line as the second period ended after Shannon intercepted a pass on the 35-yard line and Kirn did some more fancy running. Princeton was outplayed throughout the first two periods and never threatened the Navy goal line

Navy scored another touchdown early in the third period. The middies got the bayy in midfield when Princeton had to punt after receiving the kickoff and in five plays, Navy scored, Bauer carrying the ball over from the five-yard line After he had joined with Kirn making a series of gaining plays.

Bowstrom added the extra point with a placement making the score Navy, 19; Princeton, 0.

Maloney to Show at Old Howard

Beginning Monday at the Old Howard, Jim Maloney, the pride of South Boston, will make a personal appearance at the Old Howard and give an exhibition of his skill as a boxer. Ever since he defeated Carney he has been hailed as "Jim the Giant Killer."

Olin Dutra, Del Monte, Cal., had 74.

H.C. SEEKS WIN OVER BROWN

Brown received the kick-off and punted. O'Connell ran it back into Brown territory. Brown took the ball on downs and punted it out of danger.

Brown received, and line plays with Gammino carrying took Brown midfield. Stenfort, Holy Cross' 42-yard line by intercepting a pass Purdy were exchanged The ball zipped from Baker's hands as he went to punt and he then dashed 20 yards for a Purple first down at midfield.

Gurll intercepted a Purple pass. Line plays filled and Brown punted. An O'Connell to Baker pass took Holy Cross to Brown's 43-yard line. A fumbled doublep ass gave Brown the ball as the period ended.

Score end of first period: Brown 6, Holy Cross 0.

SECOND PERIOD.

Fordham reached N. Y. U.'s three-yard line late in the second period, but there McMahon fumbled on the fourth down. Bob McNamara's fumble of a punt which was recovered by Fogarty on the Violet 11-yard line gave Fordham this opening.

N. Y. U completed a forward pass for an eight-yard gain in its own territory as the half ended with Fordham still leading 7 to 0.

B. U. BEATEN BY GYMNASTS

Nickerson Field, Oct. 25—Springfield defeated Boston University, 29 to 0, here today. It was the Terriers' first defeat on the home field since it was dedicated.

Springfield scored in the first five minutes of play. After an exchange of kicks, Goldman got off a punt which sent Springfield recovered on the Terriers 27-yard stripe After three line bucks failed, Knowlton flipped a 25-yard pass into the waiting arms of White for the first score of the game

Simonson carried the ball over for the extra point on a line plunge, Sherrity for Goldman got away another poor punt and once again the gymnasts recovered the ball on the B. U. 40-yard line. Simonson crashed off tackle for two consecutive first downs and then Tommy Orr drifted over the Terriers right flank for 20 yards to the five-yard mark as the period ended

On the kick-off in the second period, Simonson carried to the Springfield mark. Goldmans' line stiffened and recovered the ball on downs. Goldman tried to kick but the pass from center was poor and his kick only traveled five yards

Orr crashed through and carried to the B. U. one-yard stripe and then the B. U. line held once again and took the ball away on down. Clem then booted out of danger.

Springfield was not to be denied and carried the ball down to the four-yard mark and then Runcos crashed over for the second score, and White kicked the extra point from placement.

BILLIARD TITLE PLAY SOON

The four sect.onal three cushion tournaments, which will be played in eight divisions, will open on Monday, November 10, it has just been announced by C. A. Storer director of tournaments for the National Billiard Association of America.

The entries, which closed on October 20, show that there will be at least 60 players in the competition, more than twice the total in the 18 pocket billiard sectionals. The sectional finals will open on November 19 with the winner of each sectional qualifying for the world's three-cushion championship in January or February.

The complete list of cities for the three-cushion sectionals tournaments follow: Eastern Section—North division at Twentieth Century billiard room in Boston, southwest division at the Charles Ellis Recreation in Pittsburgh. Final at the Colonial Recreation in New

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Golf's Greatest Teacher

With either woods or irons your arms should go no farther around in the back swing than to a point in line with the fing. (A-B) From there they go upward. It is a far upward depends entirely upon the degree of physical resiliency or to th is a natural accommodation of yourself to the golf swing. It is not necessary to lift the club up into the busy sky in order to get a long hit. There are plenty of good players get by with comparatively short backs, and too much reaching here almost certainly will throw you off balance. You should keep in mind that the back swing is a natural action, and therefore is a simple one. Exaggeration of any point or principle leads to trouble. Players who turn the whole body to the right as they back swing exaggerate the thing. Start back in keeping your body where it is Start with the club instead. Your body should follow the object of arresting the backward sweep of the hands at the point where they are on a line with the flag is to make the shoulders follow, and thus twist.

Woods Beats Seaback in Title Cue Play

'Paying College' Expelled

KANSAS UNIV. FOUND GUILTY BY BOARD

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 25 (AP)—Found guilty of "recruiting and subsidizing" athletes, the University of Kansas today was eliminated from the Big Six Conference "beyond this year."

The verdict of guilty of violating the rules of the conference was returned early today after a lengthy meeting of faculty representatives of the six conference members here. The verdict read:

"In view of the practices at the University of Kansas in violation of the rule of this conference relating to recruiting and subsidizing athletes, the other five members of this conference decline to schedule any athletic games or contests, not now under contract, with the University of Kansas for this academic year, and no games of contests beyond this year."

James Bausch a halfback who received honorable mention on some of the All-American football teams last year, was the "subsidized" athlete, while the conference body met after cases were considered, Bausch and Borello practically had the stage to themselves.

A Kansas State Agricultural College halfback, Bill Meisinger, who is captain-elect of the Aggie baseball team, who, like Bausch, is on the payroll of E. H. Lupton, Lawrence and Topeka insurance man, was declared ineligible from further competition by Dr. E. H. King, faculty representative from Manhattan. Dr. King stirred Coach "Bo" McMillin not to permit Meisinger to play against Oklahoma today.

Elimination of Kansas was prompted by the action of Dr. W. A. Tarr, Missouri faculty representative, who investigated Bausch and Borello, and then told the other faculty representatives Bausch's was an "excellent chance to determine whether a man drawing a regular salary was violating the conference rules."

While there was much speculation throughout the Big Six today as to whether Kansas would be given a chance to "clean house" and reform in the good graces of the conference, it was regarded as likely nothing in that direction would be done, at least until after the faculty group had reported back home.

BEACON ELEVEN PLAYS NEEDHAM

The Beacon A. C. and the Needham soccer elevens of the Boston and District League will furnish the action for the fans of this district in a league game at Needham today. As it is the only game scheduled in this neck of the woods it should be well patronized.

Tomorrow the big game of the day will be played at the Lusitania stadium, Cambridge, where the Brave Lover and Lusitania Rovers will cross cleats in the opening round of the national cup competition.

This is the most important event staged since the opening of the season and with these two Soccer League elevens battling to go into the second round the fans should witness some lively soccer.

The Shipbuilders are favored to eliminate the State champs due to the fact that they have defeated champs a boating, in their last league start and the departure of Bobby Brodie from the League to Fall River.

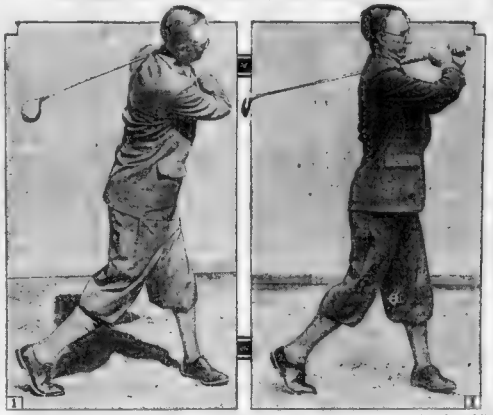
Famous Young Missouri Professional Illustrates and Describes the Mechanics and Technique of Play

BE SURE AND FINISH BENT; NOT BOLT UPRIGHT



I asked my friend, John Duncan Dunn, noted New York golf instructor to pose for these positions as it is often easier for a golf instructor to do shadow-golf than a playing professional. You will observe in Picture 1 that he is bent over and the main thing in golf is to keep bent until the end of the follow-through. I am going to repeat this often, as it is of the greatest importance.

Bernard Darwin, famous British golf authority, said he could always tell an American golfer, no matter how far away, if he could only see the finish of his swing, because "they all finish bent."

Finishing bent means not only the end of topping, feeling and most silent, but it also prevents digging was toppers try to cure topping by going down some more.

Picture 2 shows how you look in the big five hole golf ball. That is the ball bolt-upright finish. Topping isn't the worst product of it. Indeed, the lifting muscles will always neutralize the pivoting muscles so, if you are fixing up about the time of the impact, don't expect to drive a long ball.

Chronic toppers should put themselves down to the proper bent positions they ought to have been in at the end of every shot. By all means, avoid that bolt upright finish. It looks, and is, awkward.

Bantam Golf

by JOE CASHMAN

Despite the claim of some good players that the miniature pastime hurts everybody's regular golf game, the midget offspring has made thousands of links fans, and while the regulation game has probably suffered to some extent since the birth of the infant, it will eventually profit greatly as a result.

* * *

Distance seems to be the aim of the bantam owners these days. The new course soon to be opened in the Cambridge Ice Palace will have one pitch and putt hole of 207 feet in length, which, according to T. S. Forsyth, the proprietor, will be the longest in New England.

* * *

Last evening was a banner one for the big intown indoor courses. It was entirely too damp to tramp the streets, so the gay, colorful and enthusiastic football crowd packed the bantam layouts from early evening until early morning.

STRIB HERE FOR CHRISTNER GO

"Young" Stribling is in the Hub for his 10-round bout against K. O. Christner at the Boston Arena, next Friday night, under the direction of the Lawrence A. A.

Stribling came down out of the clouds today at the East Boston Airport, flying here from the Newark airdrome. It was the first time the boxing history that a principal in a bout in this city has flown here for a proposed match.

Stribling's trip was his first start in the Hub since knocking out Phil Scott in London and Otto Von Porat in Chicago, plans to finish his training here.

With two eight round bouts already arranged, one between Big Bill Hartwell and Arthur De Kuh and another between George Nichols of Buffalo and Rosie Rosales of Cleveland, there is keen interest in the show.

Can-Am Circuit Remains Same

New Haven, Oct. 25—At a meeting of the Canadian-American Hockey League, held here, it was voted to co lnue with the present five-team circuit, namely Providence, Lyon, Springfield, New Haven and Philadelphia.

It was also decided to establish a referee-in-chief this season and the question of selection was left in the hands of Pres. James E. Dooley of Providence. A tentative schedule was drawn up.

Changes in the playing rules as adopted by the National Hockey League were discussed and the matter of promulgating rules of the Canadian-American League were left to Pres. Dooley.

Hoover, Hamaguchi, MacDonald at Speak Before Signing of Naval Treaty

The entire world will hear the radio celebration of the signing of the London naval treaty over an NBC nation-wide chain said through short wave stations in California, Schenectady and Pittsburgh, and Hawaii, China, Australia, England, the Philippines and other points in the Orient. This celebration will be heard Monday morning beginning at 9:00 and will consist of speeches by President Hoover, Premier Ramsay MacDonald of England and Premier Hamaguchi of Japan, the heads of the three governments concerned in the treaty. Local stations WBZA and WEEI will carry the broadcast.

Premier Hamaguchi will be the first speaker to be heard. He will speak for 10 minutes in Japanese from Tokio, and his address will be transmitted throughout the world by short wave.

From the White House in Washington, promptly at 10 o'clock President Hoover will address the world-wide audience, and his 10-minute address will be followed by a brief speech by Prime Minister MacDonald who will speak from 10 Downing st. in London. Following the British leader's talk, Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to Great Britain, will talk from London.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

The other day M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, addressed the conference of the Major Industries at Mandel Hall University of Chicago. Natural by his remarks to this distinguished gathering alluded entirely to the subject of radio broadcasting, and being in such close contact with the business, what he had to say was of interest and importance.

One paragraph of his speech bears repeating to television, now as it is not enough special interest to remember here. We believe that the public at large is more than a little curious about this subject, and that it is our duty to keep you posted.

Said Mr. Aylesworth: "Television is still in the laboratory. Much has been said about television's coming to the home. In procedure, television has been greatly emphasized before its actual appearance. It has been hailed as already here, but we took a look and found it not. Most statements have lost themselves in fond dreams and ephemeral speculations. The truth of the matter is that television is here only in the laboratory as a practical service it is not even in sight.

"We must remember that startling laboratory experiments, though eagerly devoured by the press, which hails the spectacular beyond its true worth, are not necessarily the beacon lights showing practicality in the near future. We feel that it is our duty at the present to warn the public, grown used to tremendous strides in radio, against expecting television prematurely. But, on the other hand, our duty to sponsors demands our investigation of television when it comes."

Here and There Over the A'r

The Klufferettes, better known to the radio audience as Hum and Strum, will be heard in another of their lively harmony programs from WNAC and the Yankee Network, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

A special Armistice Day program will be presented at 10:30 a. m. over WNAC at 10:30 a. m. Now is all with music furnished by the United States Navy Yard Band. Two speakers will be introduced into the program. Capt. Harold E. Wyman of U. S. N., and professor of naval history and tactics at Harvard University, and J. P. Parker, U. S. N. R., and secretary of the Navy League of Massachusetts.

A most fitting overture to Monday's world wide broadcast, television is going to present to the world a program of events from the city of London on the Thames. Viscount Astor, heard over the CBS chain at 12:30 p. m. Lord Astor will talk on the very new subject, education of American prohibition.

Ray Perkins, radio's most famed humorist, will give a humorous interview to his bag of tricks. From the Yale Bowl today Ray is telling listeners about the crowd and the game. And for the most part it is a humorous account. Ray is the only announcer McAndrew and Mack have ever had who is a football expert.

PARRISH GIVES 300 MERCHANTS 12-RULE CREED FOR SELLING

EXPERT WARNS THIS IS TIME TO USE, NOT LOSE, HEADS

An intensely interested audience of more than 300 department store executives, store buyers, stylists and advertising men and women heard Amos Parrish, nationally known style authority and sales consultant, give his 12 rules for selling success, yesterday noon at a Retail Trade Board luncheon.

The luncheon was sponsored by the Boston Evening American. The 12 rules, Mr. Parrish explained, have been proven the right ones by successful stores. They were selected, he pointed out, as the vital ones in the long list of plans worked out by these successful selling organizations.

George B. Johnson, president, Boston Retail Board, presiding, said:

Our speaker today has made an outstanding success in department store work and is known from coast to coast as a leading authority. He is here through the courtesy of the Boston Americas, and without any further introduction, I take great pleasure in introducing Mr. Amos Parrish (applause).

Mr. Parrish said:

Mr. Johnson, ladies and gentlemen: It is lots of fun being with you, because we have a whole lot that [illegible] Chamber of Commerce has been doing [illegible]

DON'T LOSE HEAD

I would like to go very fast [illegible] normal, but when I [illegible] gathered from observing successful stores which really sell goods. I find that the stores in Boston which are more successful [illegible] and those are stores [illegible] leading departments in these [illegible]

Let us agree on them, and if you don't agree, you are wrong.

(1) Let us agree first that this is a pretty good time to use and not lose your head.

This is the most important and [illegible] represented here ever went [illegible]

One of the people in America [illegible] don't lose them. I think it is a [illegible] time to attack soundly, rather than to attack by sound, or [illegible] I believe, [illegible] with a lot of [illegible] think it is a time for them to talk of what they [illegible] rather than to take part in some of the sobbing that we see going around. We do not believe in any Pollyana thing.

We know that Mrs. Massachusetts has $61,000,000 more money in the savings bank than she had a year ago. Tue job is to get the money out of her stocking. We think the job is to get the surpluses money out of her stocking and try to get her to buy more stockings.

WHAT BOSTON BUYS

We still think that people want good-looking things for the home and for themselves. The people want to dress right, but today they won't buy dresses which are not right, and they get more for their money than ever before; it obviously so.

I want to read a few of some things about Boston. These figures are some of the things that are sold in the Boston market: The folks in the Boston market buy $76,000,000 worth of autos; $18,000,000 worth of underclothing, $13,000,000 worth of hosiery, $16,000,000 worth of millinery, $102,000,000 worth of furnishings and clothing—and mean by that, all people—$11,000,000 worth of drugs, or near drugs; $63,000,000 worth of cars; $15,000,000 worth of electrical goods, $30,000,000 worth of furniture, $56,000,000 worth of what they call "home furnishings," $12,000,000 worth of furs, $27,000,000 worth of jewelry and silverware, $37,000,000 worth of piece goods, yard goods; $11,000,000 worth of toilet goods.

Now, of course, [illegible] want [illegible] can't get all of them. We can't [illegible] of course [illegible] bad here, Mr. White, Mr. Slattery, Mr. Crowell and everybody else can get and surely should get $18,000,000 worth of these millions, according to what he deserves, and no more.

Now the one who uses his head and doesn't lose it will get more than the fellow who gets a little crazy. There are not many of that sort in this room.

BUSINESS BETTER

2. We hope you will agree with us in this simple thing, that today the seller who gets the business will be the natural born seller, the one who really loves to sell. In almost every department store there is a natural born seller, a born salesman who actually gets a thrill looking at the figures.

The other day I met a buyer and asked:

"How is business?" She said, "Better than last year." She was a decent buyer, and she said, "Business is ahead of last year."

"Ahead, what do you mean by ahead?"

"Well, I mean it is ahead of last year's sales."

"You mean you sold more last year?"

"Yes."

There it is; did you get it? The only measuring stick is "How much did you sell last year?" That is nothing new, but look at some of the selling attacks of some of the stores and see the moral of it.

FANNIE BRICE'S TIP

A few years ago we had a member analyze the Boston stores over a long period of time. He came back with the information that after going over them [illegible] we agreed), that the attacks made by the Boston stores in advertising is one of the best selling attacks in America, and [illegible] [illegible] the business" and we recommend [illegible] Fannie Brice gave to Peggy Joyce when she went in business. She gave ten rules but nine didn't mean much. But the other one [illegible]

"Peggy, don't accept any present from a man unless you love him, or unless they are valuable presents."

That is just the way Mrs. Boston feels about it. She has always been a very thrifty person and always wants bargains when she goes there.

We don't believe, however, that [illegible] We believe [illegible] goods so low that it doesn't do any good. We think it is a good time to have the price right, and the "seller" will get the business. The woman buyer wants [illegible] and she'll get it today. You hear the [illegible]

BUYERS' MARKET

"This appears to be a buyers' market." All kinds of markets are buyers' markets since the [illegible] a year ago. The job is to get the money out of her stocking. We think the job is to get the surpluses money out of her stocking and try to get her to buy more stockings.

WHAT BOSTON BUYS

We still think that people want good-looking things for the home and for themselves. The people want to dress right, but today they won't buy dresses which are not right, and they get more for their money than ever before; it is obviously so.

KNOW YOUR PROFITS

—We hope you will agree with us that it is best to make selling plans before making buying plans.

We don't mark down the importance of buying, but we believe it is a good idea when a buyer, that before he leaves any plans for buying cheap, to find out where he is selling it and find out if this can be sold profitably. He gets his profit after it is sold so why not prove it before selling? We are yes [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Magazine and Fiction Page

Doomsday Book

This contains a general survey of England, commenced in the reign of William I, 1080 (some say 1085) and completed in 1086. It is a register to fix right of tenure of estates of the early English landed aristocracy.

This Day in History

This is the anniversary of the charge of the Light Brigade during the Battle of Balaklava, October 25, 1854, immortalized by Lord Tennyson in his martial poem, "It was magnificent, but not war," said Gen. Bosquet.

To Pet or Not to Pet, Girl Must Decide, Says Miss Fairfax

She Should Beware of Being "False Alarm"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

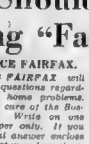
BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily column.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6:30 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 17 and am deeply in love with a fellow two years my senior. I have been out with this fellow several times and have always enjoyed myself. A very close friend of his is always inquiring whether I like the dance, party or not. I would not confess I loved him because I have always been told a fellow likes to be kept in suspense. I used to hear from the fellow every day but since the last time I was with him he hasn't called. He tried to get too funny and after reaching a certain point I got disgusted with his actions. He was very nice to me the rest of the evening but has failed to call since. I love him very much and cannot bear to lose him.

WORRIED.



Beatrice Fairfax likes to be kept in suspense.

Dear Worried: To be brutally frank with you, a girl has got to expect most anything when she starts "petting" and a girl who leads a fellow on just for a few thrills and then retreats in horror at the fifty-ninth second is simply regarded as a "false alarm," and the boys pass her up eventually as a bad bet. So you've got to make a decision—to pet or not to pet.

She's Engaged, but Bored

DEAR Miss FAIRFAX:

For the past three years I've been engaged to a man I've known all my life. He's steady, has a good salary and cares for me as much as he's capable of caring for anyone, but he's just about as thrilling as a glass of lukewarm milk and water.

Sometime during last winter I met a man who was not in the least like milk and water, he just swept me off my feet. We've gone out together a few times—not really sneaked, but I've said nothing about it to my fiance—the man knows I'm engaged, makes a semi-court of love to me and has never said anything about my breaking my engagement. My mother says he's just having a good time with me before he goes to the Pacific Coast, where he intends to take an excellent job. ADELLA B

Dear Adella: I agree with your mother that the gentleman is amusing himself, and when he gets to California he will hunt up another girl and repeat his tactics. The world is full of men of that type, and can you blame them when they find girls so ready to receive "pass-the-time" attentions. My sympathies are distinctly with the lukewarm milk-and-water fiance, but I honestly believe that feeling the way you do it would be a great mistake to marry him. More unfair to him than to yourself.

"A SEAT FOR LOVE?"

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

Sleighs had a place for love but where are the sleighs?
airplane, no better, the love drives his clients are goggles!
Id rather ride in a Caléche in Quebec with Love up in front! There's Romance!

A SMALL VOICE crying in the wilderness of the exceeding wilds of the early thirties of the twentieth century, cries, "Is there a seat for Love? For the dear-little boy who seems to go on living and wanting to be along, though the times are no verra sen-tee-men-tal!"

Let's add up on two or three fingers now, and see about this "just a bit of a seat for Love" in the way the world gets about. You are, the clever ones are saying, with a snap of their fingers to let you know that they do not care, that Love is in the same boat with poor, dear old Santa Claus, that only a few believe in him at all, and that there is no place for him in nineteen-thirty. When you list the conveyances, it looks so, I'm admitting.

The CAR. Well, of all places, say the young bloods, it seems to them there has been room to them for Cupid to go along! Yes, in the rumble seat, with the driver very very busy with the wheel if he would keep up with the restless world. And if he is parked under a dark pine tree, then Love didn't even come along most times. Just "petting" isn't even a speaking acquaintance of Dan's.

A PLANE. Not much better; oh, even worse! Often Demoiselle sits in the front seat, Monsieur in the rear—and Love stays on the ground. When there is width in the forward cockpit for two, then Love takes the rear and tries to maintain the butter-scotch sweetness and tenderness of love in the roar of wind, frigid ether, and goggles! He wishes he'd stayed on terra verde.

However, in this swift world, too hurried to plan a seat for Love, I found last year something still left with the grace of other times, where the spirit shut the eyes and dreamed—had TIME, if you please, to dream —where there was room for just me—or you—and the one I—or you—love; and up in front an extra seat beside the coachman for Love. Time and room for Love! A CALECHE—in Quebec—in the red and gold Autumn time! Too bad we can't start the institution of the caleche just for lovers to ride in. A good brown horse, fat with oats, the gleam of silver and the tang of a bell on his harness. The gentle bob-bob of the high seat. The fur robe under and over, with the hand you love in your muff with yours. Rain-bow dyed goat-hair for your feet and the driver's seat. Yellow wheels going round and round. Love and Pierre Soucl up in front. With a stop for marmalade and tea. Ohh—

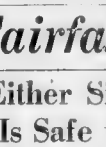
Either Side Is Safe to Sleep On

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

"DO YOU sleep on your left side or in the right side the best to sleep on?"

This was a question asked me the other day. I scratched my head and appeared very thoughtful, but to be perfectly frank I could not recall on which side I do sleep.



Dr. Copeland

Numerous text-books, investigations and articles have been written on this subject and it seems to two authorities agree. As a matter of fact, I do not believe it makes much difference whether we sleep on the right side or on the left side.

Sleep is brought about by fatigue and the body attempts to rest by the relaxation afforded during sleep. If you are accustomed to sleeping on your left side and sleep well by no means force yourself to change to the right side.

The position you assume when going to sleep is not the position in which you find yourself on awakening. The body changes its position many times during the night. Have you ever watched children sleep and noticed their various contortions? They will assume different positions to sleep about quite frequently yet they are thoroughly rested and are resting in their sleep.

Give yourself plenty of fresh air at night. Do not pile on the bed clothes too thickly and do not crowd your stomach with a lot of unnecessary food just before retiring. Go to bed to sleep and leave it to your instinct to determine the position your tired body is to take.

Answers to Health Queries

A READER, Q.—What causes a boy of 17 to be troubled with unbearable pains around the heart? They sometimes last for an hour or more and are so intense as to cause him to shiver and moan?

A.—Have the heart examined. The trouble may be due to several different causes. In the meantime avoid indigestion and keep the whole system active so be sure to have proper rest.

Halloween the Time for Frolic and Fun

By MARTHA LEE

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Homemakers' Club of Over 37,000

HALLOWEEN WILL soon be here with all its spooks, goblins, witches and ghosts. Once more the graveyards will yawn and restless spirits walk the earth. And candles will be burned, strange brews made and charms muttered to ward off these ghostly visitors.

Incidentally, it is the night when questions regarding new setheart will be answered, fortunes told and black cats and broms will stand guard over pots and cauldrons.

Martha Lee

Truly it is a perfect time to give a party. The most exciting, colorful and fun making party of the whole year. So make up your list of guests, send out your invitations and prepare to be merry. Only, don't invite anyone too old, or too young, to enter into the spirit of fun, for it is no place for people who cannot forget their dignity and take part in a frolic.

Ask your guests to come disguised in sheets, or as witches, ghosts skeletons, scowling Kitty and chasty. And as soon as they arrive start the games.

First break down any formality by matching partners by the two halves of a pumpkin cutout. Then set them to work struggling to gain possession of an apple on one end of a short stick, which has a little sack of flour on the other end, and is suspended by a string from a heavier string which catches across the room. The one who first succeeds in biting the apple is the winner. This game creates much laughter, as each guest is more apt to receive a daub of flour on his face than a bite of apple.

Foolish fortunes should come next, to be stirred out of a paper cauldron for each guest, or at the proper moment to be struck out of a tissue paper pumpkin suspended from the ceiling and scattered over the floor. Each folded slip of paper bears a fortune, which you can make up quickly.

"You brighten things up every Tuesday—especially the stove."

"You will shine in your line with plenty of soap." "Innumerable checks are coming your way—pawn checks." And so forth.

And then comes the zero hour, when guests are seated on the floor in a circle and lights are turned low—but send in your name and request for the last and most thrilling event of the evening, and for sandwich and salad suggestions to cheer the guests after a hectic evening. They are all ready to mail out, and will go forward on request.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

BOSTON'S LUCKY GIRL

CHAPTER 56

CATHIE DRESSED for her last day in court. The last day . . . Mr. Allan and Gordon were sure it would be the last day.

Well, even if it wasn't, one could scarcely see Pet so freshened and renewed, so . . . human again.

In her cheeks in jail she had suffered so much, passed through so many phases of suffering—bewilderment, despair, shame, sorrow, doubt, unrest and fear by turns, but deadness when all hope was gone, and she seemed stunned dry of all human emotions . . . empty and vacuous like a sponge.

And now she was all hope and gentleness and delicately surging life again . . . impatient, quivering to have it over with.

No need for the policewoman and the depth sheriff just her along this time. She marched ahead, stepping lightly and trimly in her high-heeled black pumps, thin little face flushed and expectant, long widow's veil floating behind, every bit of her straining with eagerness . . . hurry . . . hurry . . . get out of here.

Different Look

Even the crowd looked different. They didn't look morbidly curious, like men and women who have come to feed a sentence in a murder case . . . but of course they hadn't come for that . . . they'd read the papers . . . they were coming to hear her acquitted . . . to see her walk away free . . .

It was Mr. Macmillan, the district attorney! And smiling, too. And so was Asst. Dist. Atty. McLoughlin. "Glad to hear the good news. You're a lucky girl!" he whispered in her ear as she passed her in the anteroom.

"There she comes!"

"That's her!"

"Shh . . . that's Mrs. Farnsworth—that's Catherine!"

People whispered. People turned to look at her. People smiled at her. People were saying, "Didn't I tell you?" Didn't I promise . . .

Love on Wire

Across the room her love went winging back . . . her message to him, in her dewey, tremulous smile. . . .

Newly discovered evidence . . . wrongly and unjustly accused . . . full and complete confession . . . verdict set aside. . . .

Legal words, legal phases went flying over Cathie's head . . . Mr. Allen, in his most eloquent voice . . . the judge very judicial and his cold as much better . . . sharp question from the harassed reporter, pencil flying to get all the words.

"Cathie! You're wool-gathering!" Ruth's piercing whisper right in Cathie's ear.

"Am not!" Cathie whispered back, indignant, because it was true. Darn Ruth anyway, always interfering, always telling her what to do!

Mr. Macmillan was on his feet now. Oh, Lord, he was going to make a long speech. When he put his hands in his pockets and swayed back and forwards that was it always meant a long speech.

"May it please the court—" his sonorous voice rang out, for all the world like an actor approaching his best bit in the play. . . .

"Good for an hour!" Cathie mouthed at Gordon, feeling wicked and reckless the way she used to feel long ago in school, when she mouthed messages across to Addie White about the teacher. And when she looked at him, and saw his familiar, answering twinkle, and remembered all that had happened since she saw it last . . . and where she really was, and how nearly it had come to being the end of all troubles for her and Pet . . . and that it really could be over . . . going right out of a schoolroom, pushing the poor nurse ahead of the room, I'll bet, and Dr. Doolin storming at her . . . as if it would do any good to try to keep Ma from one of us kids . . .

"Pay attention!" Mr. Gunther said, nudging her. "Pete's sake, aren't you interested in your own release?"

Cathie nodded brightly. "Oh yes . . . I was just thinking . . . "

Then her eye caught Gordon's. He smiled at her, a serious, prominent smile as if he were saying "Didn't I tell you?" Didn't I promise . . .

Free Again

"There wasn't a dry eye in the courtroom when District Attorney Macmillan made the motion for the beautiful young widow's release," one newspaper wrote in a description of Cathie's acquittal at the hands of twelve good men and true.

Instantly Cathie wasn't Cathie any more. She was a symbol. She didn't hear a word of it. And neither the rush of congratulations that followed, nor the storm of applause from the thrilled and delighted spectators who just wouldn't listen to the bailiff's pounding for order, made her realize just how lucky she was, and just how unusual it is for a district attorney to ask a judge for a prisoner's release.

"Thank you—thank you so much!" Cathie murmured over and over, to Mr. Macmillan, to Mr. McLoughlin, to Mr. Allan, to Mr. Gunther—to policeman, and policewomen, and newspaper women and everyone who crowded up to shake her hand, and congratulate her.

And if the white she was straining and leaning toward the door . . . toward the door that led out . . . away from jail . . . towards home . . .

Ma had her by one arm, Gordon by the other . . . oh, no different from a policewoman and a deputy sheriff.

"DON'T cry NOW!" Ruth begged, passing her the fourth handkerchief that morning. "My Lord, it's all over. I'm sure ma and I are glad if you aren't!"

"So Happy!"

"Now don't worry the child, Ruth. It's the reaction and all she's been through. Cathie, darlin"—the policeman with the red hair wants to say goodby to you—"

"The car's waiting outside, Mrs. Unger. I can take you all," Gordon was saying. "Cathie, I suppose you'll want to go with your mother—"

Mary Janes stood still in her tracks. Hated the whole idea—hated policemen. "And where else should Cathie want to go? Where else indeed but her own home?"

And then Cathie did break down. Gordon almost carried her to the car. People stood back in respectful silence, made a narrow human lane for them to pass through.

"Miss foolishness," Ruth was grumbling, bringing up the rear, wondering whether to give Cathie the green chiffon sport handkerchief or the white one. The only one she had left or to let Cathie have the soiled one. But Cathie didn't notice.

Her unhappiness. Cathie was nothing.

She was crying because she was going home . . . home to the old white cottage.

To Be Continued Monday.

Error in Her Guest List

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Some friends are to be married. The best man is to stand up with the bride's sister, but he has a girl friend and they all have been friends for several years. Did the bride's sister know that he is not inviting them to the wedding at all? PATSY.

If the wedding isn't to be very small, with only the families invited, the close friend of the best man, who is to shake her hand, for so long and so well, should most certainly have been invited to the wedding.

Thanking One's Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Whom does one thank for a lovely time at a Sunday tea given by a sorority?

2—At such an occasion is it necessary to wear a hat?

C. A.

1—The hostess or the hostesses, should always be thanked when we leave a party.

2—Yes, it is in better form to wear a hat at tea.

Hope Begins to Displace Gloominess

Brighter Spots Multiply; Various Presidents Report Gains

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Oct. 25—Even in gloomy New York the feeling is spreading that the number of bright spots is increasing.

B. C. Forbes

Hard-headed Wall Street brokers are beginning publicly to recommend the purchase of stocks at recent levels. A commitago bearishness resigned. The market's recent action is interpreted as indicating that the opportunity for making profitable purchases by selling short has passed and that the market's next sustained movement will be upwards. The drastic decrease in brokers' loans is regarded as proving that a great many shares have lately been purchased not on margin, but outright by investors, small and large, who intend to put them away.

An increase in commercial borrowing suggests that business demands are broadening out at least a little. So many corporations and firms, however, now have ample cash resources that volume of business could expand considerably without any corresponding expansion in commercial loans resulting.

Encouraging facts are being supplied this column from many directions. Suppose we consider a few:

William C. Van Antwerp, president partner of E. F. Hutton & Co., in San Francisco, writes:

"Leaders in trade and industry on the Pacific Coast all tell me that so far as this section we have no winter weather here, the better. It is most pronounced in building materials, new construction and in retail trade. As we have no winter weather here, there will be no interruption of the program already under way for road building, railway construction, bridges, school buildings and pipe lines, and many of these are of very large proportions."

Leo T. Donahue writes:

"You should tell the pessimists that the Stearns & Foster Company of Cincinnati, manufacturers of mattresses, have increased their working force until 9 o'clock six nights a week."

President M. H. Baker of the National Gypsum Company, Buffalo, in a letter to his organization, states:

"We have continued to advance both in the specific matter of sales and the more far reaching matter of enlarged dealer distribution."

* * *

President Thomas J. Watson of the International Business Machines Corporation:

"Our earnings are running ahead of 1929. Our cash position is stronger than a year ago and inventories are approximately the same. The increase in our business recently made it necessary to substantially enlarge our factory at Endicott, N. Y."

The West Coast Lumbermen's Association reports:

"New business continues ahead of production. For the last five weeks production has averaged 4.16 per cent under orders. The industry is now carrying less lumber than on Jan. 1. Unfilled orders since September have made slight gains."

President William Whitfield Woods of the Institute of American Meat Packers:

"Following a decided improvement in demand, which became apparent about two months ago, the wholesale prices of most meats, especially beef and veal, have straightened somewhat from the relatively low levels reached during the summer."

Canadian Hydro-Electric Corp. Ltd., a division of International Paper & Power Co, last month produced fully 211,000,000 kilowatt hours, a new September record, and 21 per cent over last year. New England Power Assn, another subsidiary of International, reports a gain of 12½ per cent in sales of domestic appliances last month over August.

President Hiram S. Rivitz of Industrial Rayon Corp, tells me that both the company's plants are operating at full capacity, that September was Rayon's largest shipping month in the company's history, and that orders on hand will keep the plants going for some months. Rivitz estimates earnings of $9 a share for the year, with the ratio of quick assets to current liabilities over 17 to 1, and no borrowings.

A New York minister, who as a boy participated in the famous "run" for home lands when Oklahoma was opened up, was seated between Dr. Traylor and President Franklin. He reminded that, in this company, he did not find it hard to choose as between a Traylor (trailer) and a Franklin; of course he picked the Franklin, he explained.

Frank Bodwell, front office manager at the Hotel Astor, New York, is entering his 11th month at the big hotel. He will be recalled by many "old timers" at Bethlehem, N. H., where he was one of the pioneers at the famous "log" resort. During the World War he was on the staff at headquarters for United States Army officials. Mr. Bodwell came to know personally Gen. John J. Pershing, the late Gen. George Goethals, engineer in charge of construction of the Panama Canal, Gen. Hugh L. Scott, and many of the nation's leading statesmen and business leaders who stayed at the hotel. Among Mr. Bodwell's friends in the theatrical profession are George H. Cohan, D. W. Griffith, John Phillip Sousa, etc.

United Business Service of Boston amplifies our recent statement about the relatively small number of financial crashes in this country since the start of the bear market. The Service says:

"The recent failure of two New York Stock exchange houses has created an alarm all out of proportion to its importance, according to this week's United Business Service Report. A little more than a year ago brokerage firms were in a condition of extravagant expansion, with many branch offices, expensive staffs and inflated margin accounts. They have since gone through an extremely difficult period of retrenchment and liquidation. Yet only three firms of any importance have been suspended out of a total of some 670.

"Brokers' loans have been reduced about 68 per cent from the 1929 peak, and this has been accomplished without any suspension of trading on the Exchange. Certainly such a situation would not be viewed with alarm' in other lines of business or manufacture, and there is no apparent reason why it should be so interpreted here."

Chicago & Eastern Bond Money Ready

Chicago, Oct. 25—Chicago & Eastern's bond money is ready.

"Funds for payment of interest charges due Nov. 1 next on our general mortgage 5 per cent bonds of 1933 have been set aside for the purpose," said Pres. Powell. Approximately $33,000,000 of these bonds are outstanding, and the semi-annual interest payment, due Nov. 1, amounts to about $835,000. Pres. Powell expects coal traffic to increase because of reopening of a large Indiana mine which has been closed on account of labor difficulties, together with increased seasonal demand.

Oil Burner Sales Take a Big Jump

An average increase in oil burner sales during August and September of 1180 per cent of July's figures was reported by the Petroleum Heat & Power Company of Stamford, Ct. This percentage of increase compares with an average increase of 346 per cent in the business of the oil burner industry as a whole, during the same period in 1929, based on government figures covering 65 per cent of the industry's production.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

The market this week for the first time has shown ability to ignore bearish news, such as the cut in copper below 10 cents per pound, and passage of the Montgomery Ward dividend.

Of course the end of the war in Brazil was a great aid to the bulls.

It is too early, naturally, to interpret the market's new performance in the light of more lasting probabilities, but its action has been the most influential factor in changing speculative sentiment to considerable degree. Of paramount importance is the seeming evidence of more favorable conditions surrounding the so-called Van Sweringen situation.

Kinner Airplane's Position Is Good

Production of Kinner Airplane & Motor Corp. in the first nine months of 1930 totaled 351 engines compared with 811 engines produced during the corresponding period of last year. The current position of the company is good. As of Sept. 30 current assets, including inventory were in excess of $670,000, as against total indebtedness of $72,000.

Buying Comes in St. Paul Preferred

St. Paul preferred has been in new low territory during the past week but reports are heard that there has been rather good long term acute buying for the issue during the sharp setback. The rank will not show a balance for the calendar year, this year, earnings being estimated at between 3.25 per cent and 3.50 per cent on the basis of the adjustment mortgage bonds. The bonds will pay interest of 4 per cent this year, leaving 1 per cent unpaid accumulations.

Consolidated Gas Watched Closely

It is probable that the action of Consolidated Gas is being watched more closely now than ever before by the rank and file of market observers. For some time the public utilities have not been receiving such long attention from traders and others. In 1929 professionals have been credited with being among the chief sellers of these stocks during all rallies.

The theory is held that Consolidated Gas is a logical leader among the utilities because it has always been a popular issue with traders as well as outsiders. Any improvement in the market for this stock would probably be first in rather heavy short covering in other utilities. Investment scale buying has been reported in Consolidated Gas on numerous occasions during recent weak market periods.

Rock Island Has Earnings Shrinkage

Like other railroads, Rock Island has had a sharp shrinkage in earnings this year, but interests identified with the road are satisfied that the full $7 a share dividend on the common stock will be earned by a margin of 50 cents to $1. Because of this fact they have expressed the view that the regular dividend will be declared regular directors meet about the middle of next month. In 1929 the road reported earnings of $14 a share, which is $12.89 a share was shown in 1928.

Can's "Extra" Is Seen as Gesture?

When the extra dividend was declared on American Can several weeks ago some of the bear traders insisted it was a gesture to bolster the market for the stock and were inclined to put additional short sales after rallies. However Can has been acting better of the other leading industrials some time.

Steel Industry Is Speeding Up

Midwestern steel industry will put operating schedules next week on basis of 55 per cent of capacity, against 50 October average this far of 50 per cent.

Anchor Cap Gains Over '29 Figures

Anchor Cap Corp. and subsidiaries report for first nine months of 1930 net income, after all charges, including depreciation, reserves and federal and Canadian income taxes, of $871,636, equivalent, after preferred dividend requirements, to $3.10 a share on the common stock. This compares with $855,396 for the corresponding period last year.

Foreign Power to Offer New Stock

Directors of American & Foreign Power Co., are considering a plan to offer holders of 514,000 shares of 5% preferred newly issued stock of $6 preferred stock. Company applied to New York Stock Exchange for listing of 585,622 shares of $6 preferred.

Corn Products Profit Outlook

Corn Products participated in the general recovery, despite reports that considerable selling was taking place on expectations the next two quarters may show no improvement in earnings.

Yellow Truck at New Low

In the excitement over the strength, Yellow Truck was over looked in its decline to a new low Selling was declared to be of necessitous character, little related to the company's own position.

Borden Attracts Better Support

Better support has been noticeable in Borden recently due to the continued improvement shown by the company. Operations of Borden have made satisfactory progress during the current year, and per share earnings make a favorable comparison with a year ago despite the increased amount of stock outstanding.

Cannon Mills and Textiles

If reported fundamental improvement in textile industry continues, it is logical to expect Cannon Mills to be one of the principal beneficiaries. The stock is selling to yield over 4 per cent.

Heavy Covering in Westinghouse

Recovery in Westinghouse Electric was brought by short covering by bears who had been active on the selling side of his issue since it sold almost fifty points higher.

Montgomery-Ward Reaches New Low

With complete omission of Montgomery-Ward's dividend, the company would seem to be entirely on an entirely new era, in which its capital resources will be available in entirety for development of the business. Large volume of transactions in the stock indicated that a good deal of selling was taking place not only because of the dividend omission, but also indorsed by the disappointing showing in results for the nine months. Nevertheless, there is considerable worthwhile-long-pull buying coming into the stock.

Radio "B" Preferred

Despite the market's evident nervousness over continuance of the $3 dividend on Radio "B" preferred, there is understood to be steady buying of the stock for interests who believe the payment is in no danger.

Allied Chemical Moves Briskly

Substantial light offerings over hanging the market in Allied Chemical were again demonstrated when the issue advanced over 5 points yesterday. Important buying developed each time the stock approaches the 200 level, where the yield, including the stock dividend, is 8 per cent.

Atchison Demand on 5 P. C. Basis

That investment demand exists for Atchison whenever the yield exceeds 5 per cent was evidenced in its substantial rebound from below 200.

Chesapeake & Ohio Selling at Low Ratio

Low ratio to earnings price at which Chesapeake & Ohio is selling is a attractive factor in the stock for investment buying. Earnings of the company for the full calendar year on a conservative basis will be $10 a share so that Chesapeake & Ohio is selling little more than eight times earnings.

Consolidated Gas Rallies Easily

Ease with which Consolidated Gas rallied yesterday is interpreted as reflects the important accumulation that has taken place in that issue recently. A period of rest based on several occasions in the past several weeks, interests close to Consolidated Gas have steadily increased their holdings on a scale down.

Furthermore, the recent decline on a basis where the yield approximates 4¼ per cent attracted considerable investment buying. This accumulation naturally reduced the floating supply with the result that the market is more susceptible to buying at the present time.

Steel Dividend Found Covered

It is estimated that Steel earnings in quarter ended September 30 were sufficient to more than cover the common dividend requirements of $1.75.

That was accomplished on average operations of around 65 per cent and very low prices. What will Steel be able to earn on its common when operations are around 90 per cent and steel prices higher?

Melting Assets Held by Trader

"Mine's a case of frozen assets," replied a trader who bought nine six weeks ago and they have been melting ever since."

General Motors' High and Low

Oct. 25, 1916—One hundred shares of General Motors common sold at $114 and at its record high of $850. The record low was $23 a share set May 15, 1913, for 100 shares.

Buys Can for 2-Year Pull

A wealthy investor purchased 35,000 shares of American Can common from $114 a share down, which he says he expects to hold at least two years.

RECENT GAINS WELL HELD IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

New York, Oct. 25—With the usual week-end profit taking to absorb, swollen by the rapid decline of the previous session, the stock market today once more showed inability to accomplish more than a two-day rally, but most of the advances of the past days were well maintained.

Inasmuch as the market has not closed higher more than two successive days in more than two months, Wall Street was not surprised, Furthermore, it is not unusual for advances to be halted on the last day of the week, as in-and-out traders are anxious to take profits before the week-end closing.

FARM IMPLEMENTS WEAK

Farm implement shares were conspicuously weak, but bonds elsewhere were mostly from fractions to a point. The closing tone was heavy. Trading was light, sales approximating 1,200,000 for the two-hour period.

Case, frequently a wide mover, was a weak feature, tumbling more than 12 points to a new low. International Harvester lost 3 points and Allied Chemical declined as much. Foster Wheeler and Stone & Webster lost about 2.

Shares closing a point or so lower included General Electric, American Telephone, Woolworth, American Can, Erie, Reading, Reduction Union Carbide, General Motors, Kennecott and Safeway. Montgomery Ward surged to near to a new low at 19¾ in further selling, evidently reflecting the dividend omission.

STEEL ACTIVELY UP

A bright spot in the day's news was a report indicating a slight acceleration of steel mill activity in the Youngstown area next week.

Wall Street was not much depressed by it, however, in view of yesterday's statements of executives at the Iron and Steel Institute, indicating expectations of little change until after the turn of the year.

The seasonal buying of rails has been disappointing to the steel trade, having attained only about half the volume of 1928 or 1927 at this time. The reduced number of new orders have tended to restrict buying.

The weekly mercantile review reported that the colder weather had stimulated sales of seasonal merchandise. Also that were in agreement with recent analyses indicating that a change in trend has probably occurred but that upward progress will be slow.

Commercial failures for the past week, as reported by Dun's, were unfavorable, numbering 343 against 460 for the previous week, and 455 a year ago.

New commercial car registrations as reported from 28 states for September disclosed an interesting change of trend, with a gain of 6.8% per cent over August, although 29 per cent below September 1928. If this tendency is borne out when all states have reported, it will be the first time in four years that September truck sales have exceeded August.

ICE EARNINGS SET RECORD

Overcoming the effects of the current business depression, Otis Elevator Co. and subsidiaries operating in 26 states and Canada, reported the highest net earnings in its history for the nine months ended August for the first nine months of its fiscal year.

The company's net for September, available for dividends after all charges was $983,643, which compares with $811,314 in September last year, its best previous September.

For the nine months ending with September 30, net earnings available for dividends after all charges were $5,717,667 comparing with $5,063,543 for this period last year. This represents a gain of over 10 per cent for the three quarters.

NEW BUILDING IS PLANNED

The following is a list of some of the larger projects now being figured which have not been previously mentioned, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., construction reports, which are compiled by applications on file in their office: Superintendent's house and ward building, Northampton, architect, Gordon Robb, Boston. House of correction, Billerica, architect, Charles R. Greco, Boston.

Contract has been awarded to Arrington of Hudson to build an addition to the laundry boiler house at 14 Lenox st., Roxbury, for Beacon Laundry Co. Engineer, Charles T. Main Co., Inc., of Boston.

Beasley to Head Detroit Aircraft

E. S. Evans has resigned as president of Detroit Aircraft Corp. and will be succeeded by W. B. Beasley Nov. 1. Mr. Evans will devote more time to Evans Auto Loading Co., of which he is president. He has been elected chairman of the executive committee of Detroit Aircraft Corp. and will continue to take an active part in the management of the corporation.

Canada Distress to Be Mitigated

Conceding that unemployment is an important problem in Canada, the Bank of Montreal in its review of business summary points out that there is good reason to think that distress will be mitigated by co-operation to provide employment on the part of the Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments and thus to bridge over the period of stock trade until the late autumn seasons produces a more durable remedy.

Sears' Dividend Is Well Covered

Chicago, Oct. 25—Sears, Roebuck & Co. net in nine months of 1929 probably was in excess of cash dividend requirements for the period of about 58,500,000. The company has earned a profit each month this year, according to statements close to the management, who stated also that its present inventory situation is excellent.

NOVENA BEGINS TOMORROW

At the church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison ave. and East Concord st., the annual Novena for the souls in Purgatory will begin tomorrow, and close on the feast of All Souls, Monday, Nov. 3. Each year large numbers of men and women from various parts of Boston follow these services in memory of departed relatives and friends.

The Novena exercises will be conducted in the upper church every day at 5:30 and 8 p. m. The 5:30 service has been introduced as a convenience for business men and women returning from work who find it impossible to attend the 8 p. m. exercises. The afternoon service will be completed within half an hour. The evening service will begin with the Rosary followed by a discourse and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The Novena will be conducted by the Rev. George E. Hanan, S. J.

CITY OF BOSTON

STATE ELECTION

...tary Clerk's office, Oct. 24, 1930.

In accordance with the provisions of the laws governing elections, notice is hereby given that meetings of the citizens of this city qualified to vote for State officers will be held in the several polling places designated for the purpose by the Board of Election Commissioners, on and at such other times as such date, in the several precincts in which they are entitled to vote, give in their votes for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, State Secretary, State Treasurer, State Auditor, Attorney-General, Senator in Congress, Representatives in Congress (if there be a contest in the General Court, District Attorney, Register of Probate and Insolvency, also to give in their votes on the following questions:

QUESTION NO. 1
PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Shall an amendment to the Constitution relative to the apportionment of senatorial, representative and councillor districts, further described as follows:

The proposed amendment of the Constitution provides for the annulment of Articles XXI of the Articles of Amendment of the Constitution and the substitution therefor of a new Article XXI, and the annulment of Articles XXII of the Articles of Amendment of the Constitution and the substitution therefor of a new Article XXII, the proposed amendment embodies in substance the same changes in the present Articles as said Articles XXI and XXII;

The proposed Article XXI, towns of twelve thousand inhabitants or more may be divided in forming representative districts. No province, however, in such cases shall be divided. The General Court shall make the special enumeration and shall cause the districts to be established in each precinct accordingly. Under existing conditions Article XXI no town may be divided and no specification of the number of districts to which it is entitled.

The division of a county into representative districts and the apportionment of representatives to districts therein shall be made by "The county commissioners of each county, or a majority of them, or, if such board of special commissioners as may be established by law for that purpose be appointed by the governor, Article XXI is now stands the division and apportionment is also made by "The mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston the county commissioners of other counties that have cities, or in lieu of the mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, the county commissioners in each county where commissioners are appointed by the governor, which are in each county to be elected by the inhabitants of the several cities, towns and districts, as may be provided by law." The time for assembling of such commissioners, board or body for the purpose of making such division and apportionment is also changed from the first Tuesday or August next after each decennial census to "within one hundred days after the Federal Court may be provided.

3. Under the proposed Articles each special enumeration shall be the basis for determining the districts, senatorial, representative and councillor, for the ten-year period beginning in the January next after the taking of each census and for the next regular census to be taken next census in 1935 would, under the proposed Articles, allow the General Court in 1936 to hold office beginning in January 1937 to establish districts for the next ten-year period. Under existing conditions representation of newly incorporated towns is not fixed until the second year after each ten-year census. Under the proposed Articles it would begin in January of the fourth year thereafter (i. e., 1934 for senators, representatives (160), senators (40), and councillors (8) in the Legislature.

4. The Legislature may at any time establish a division of representative, senatorial or councillor districts, without waiting for the next regular decennial proceedings. The existing amendment so authorizes the Legislature, but limits such power to the first session after the session in which the return of each decennial census of the United States is received in a joint session of the two branches.
